Treasury Agent Says Santa Ana Post Office Is to Be One of Big Projects

Five Sites For Structure In Los Angeles Are Under Consideration Now

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 3.—(UP)—William Arthur Newman, district engineer and site agent on the Pacific Coast for the United States treasury department, today made known details for a government building in Southern California.

Five sites for a federal building in Los Angeles are under consideration, according to Newman.

Newman stopped in Los Angeles on his way to El Centro to select a site for a new $200,000 postoffice building for which money has already been appropriated.

"Approximately $2,000,000 will be spent in Southern California cities for postoffice buildings during 1931," Newman said. "One million dollars will be spent for postoffice buildings at Long Beach, $200,000 in Pomona, $250,000 in San Bernardino, $250,000 at Santa Ana and $200,000 at El Centro. A new federal building also will be constructed at Las Vegas, Nevada, at a cost of $250,000."

The government expects to spend $10,000,000 for a new federal building and postoffice here but no more money than can be spent during the fiscal year of 1931 will be appropriated by congress, Newman said.

"There is no reason why construction on the federal building here should not begin here in 1931," Newman said. "Provided the chamber of commerce and other civic bodies can get together and agree on a site to which there would be no question of title. But if the matter is left entirely to the government to select the site and proceed to title is necessary. It is probable the work will be delayed considerably."

"The government at this time will make no decision as to a new postoffice, which, however, will not be located in the federal building but will be built adjacent to the new central railroad terminal. Nothing will be done in this connection until the question of the Grand Central terminal has been decided by the supreme court."

CONSERVATION ACT UPHELD

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 3.—(UP)—Constitutionality of the state oil and gas conservation act was upheld by the California supreme court today in a decision denying a plea for a writ which would stay, pending appeal, the effect of a preliminary injunction obtained by the state to prevent wastage of natural gas.

The writ was asked by the Twin Bell oil syndicate, second Twin Bell syndicate and the Star Petroleum corporation.

The companies sought to enjoin the state from proceeding with the enforcement of an injunction granted by Superior Judge William Hazlett of Los Angeles.

The petitioners are companies operating in the Santa Fe Springs field.

ROBBERY LOOT

Discovery Made In Safety Deposit Boxes of Dead Bandit

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 3.—(UP)—A "substantial" part of the $56,000 loot taken by Frank Smith, alias Ellis, and his gang in the daylight Nobel train robbery last month, has been recovered, postal inspectors indicated today.

While they refused to divulge how much had been recovered, they said they had made several "interesting" discoveries when they opened safety deposit boxes in Eastbay banks by means of keys found on Smith when he was arrested, a few minutes before he was shot to death in trying to make his escape through downtown Oakland streets.

Meanwhile, in view of her despairing utterances, extraordinary precautions were being taken to prevent the suicide of Mrs. Ellen Ellis, widow of the slain gang leader.

At county jail under two indictments charging mail robbery, Mrs. Smith was reported today as in a state of near-collapse, declaring "she didn't care whether she lived or died."

She was also said to be in a condition of extreme nervousness as the result of a three-day session with police, who have questioned her almost unceasingly in the hope of obtaining information about other members of the gang who participated in the Nobel robbery.

Mrs. Ellis was indicted on two counts by the federal grand jury last night, charging robbery of a mail train and conspiracy to effect a mail robbery.

In event of conviction the minimum penalties are 25 years in a federal penitentiary on the robbery charge and two years on the conspiracy indictment.

Both counts of the indictment were returned after examination of several witnesses of the mail train robbery near McAvoy in Contra Costa county last year. The allegation is that Mrs. Ellis was the driver of the bandit car.

No mention was made of the recent robbery of a mail train at Nobel, near Berkeley, loot from which was alleged to have been found in Smith's home in Oakland.

The young woman previously has maintained an air of bravado and defiance since arrested, refusing to answer any questions pertaining to the activities of Smith or his confederates.

Authorities believed today she is beginning to realize the seriousness of her predicament and express the hope that she will shortly break down and reveal the names of Smith's gang and the location of some $250,000 in loot, the fruit of the gang's operations the past three years.

TUCSON, Ariz., Dec. 3.—(UP)—Larry Mullins, Notre Dame mullback, will not be able to play against Southern California Saturday, Knute Rockne announced on his arrival here today.

Mullins injured his knee in the Army game and Rockne said he did not plan to use him in the Southern California game.

Dan Hanley, 195-pound Butte, Mont., sophomore, will start at fullback.

Mooney Case

LAWYER ASKS PARDON BOARD HEARING DECEMBER FIFTEEN

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 3.—(UP)—Counsel for Thomas J. Mooney yesterday acted to speed up the hearing on his application for executive clemency, while attorneys for Warren K. Billings continue to study the California supreme court's 6-1 vote against recommendation for pardon. Both men are serving life terms on charges of being implicated in the bombing of the Preparedness day parade in 1916.

Cyrus B. King, attorney for Mooney, wired Gov. C. C. Young and Lieut. Gov. H. L. Carnahan, chairman of the advisory pardon board, asking that the hearing be set for around December 15.

Carnahan, according to Los Angeles dispatches, indicated that the board may be able to convene around that date, providing all members, counsel and witnesses can assemble either in San Francisco or Sacramento.

Governor Young, beyond acknowledging receipt of the request and announcing that he will forward it, with a copy of the supreme court majority opinion on the Billings case, to the board, refused to comment on the application.

King declared he and his colleagues were "greatly surprised" at the 6-1 decision which turned down Billings' application. He added:

"We do not feel that it affects in any way the application of Mooney for a pardon. There has never been an hearing before any person or tribunal on the application of Mooney for a pardon, and further, the supreme court has no duty in the Mooney matter, nor any jurisdiction over it."

California law requires a supreme court recommendation for pardon for a "two time" loser before the governor is empowered to extend executive clemency.

This law does not affect Mooney, who unlike Billings, is serving his first prison term.

NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—(UP)—John D. Rockefeller and his son, John D. Rockefeller Jr., today contributed $1,000,000 to the emergency unemployment fund.

The contribution was announced through the emergency unemployment committee, which is raising a fund of $6,000,000 to meet conditions brought on by present unemployment.

This swelled the total thus far raised to $4,133,000.

FRESNO COURT

LITIGANTS SEEK RULING ON RIPARIAN RIGHTS ISSUE

FRESNO, Dec. 3.—(UP)—A court contest over water rights, considered of first importance to many California farmers, was under way here today before Superior Judge Charles Haynes of San Diego county. The trial is expected to last five or six weeks.

The plaintiffs are Miller & Lux, the San Luis Canal company and the Kings River Canal and Irrigation company. Defendant is the Madera Irrigation district.

The disputed prize is water of the San Joaquin river, but the center of general interest is the expected fixing of riparian and appropriate rights of the various interests involved.

The trial opened yesterday when the defendant irrigation district's attorneys moved to consolidate the actions of all the plaintiffs, involving similar issues.

These court contest is the outgrowth of an injunction suit of Miller & Lux to prevent the irrigation district from withdrawing water from the river which, the company's attorneys say, should flow by Miller & Lux lands under riparian and appropriate rights.

Victory in the court by the irrigation district would be followed by condemnation suits against Miller & Lux water rights, it was predicted.

WORKER BEHEADED

HANFORD, Calif., Dec. 3.—(UP)—Frank Garcia, 25, of Tulare, was beheaded by a power wood saw on the Winton Mills ranch seven miles south of here last yesterday when he became entangled in the machinery.

Garcia was adjusting the gasoline motor that powered the saw when a bolt caught his shirt and pulled him into the blade.

RICCI MUSICAL PRODIGES
PUT IN PARENTS' CUSTODY

NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—(UP)—The two Ricci violin prodigies were back in the old homeland today—represented at the moment by a Riverside drive apartment—and the long drawn out legal battle over their status appeared to be ended.

Supreme Court Justice Valentine announced he would sign an order on December 15 designating the boys' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Pietro Ricci as their custodians. The youthful celebrities, Ruggiero and Giorgio, reaffirmed to Valentine their intention of living with their family.

The boys departed suddenly from the apartment of Miss Mary Elizabeth Lackey, their legal guardian and music teacher, Monday night.

Ruggiero, whose violin concert in Mecca auditorium last Sunday was hailed enthusiastically by critics, said the idea of leaving Miss Lackey occurred to him some time ago, but was hurried by a sermon he heard on the second coming of Christ.

Giorgio, his brother wanted to leave, he said, because when he asked for ice cream at dinner Sunday night Miss Lackey gave him bread pudding.

Miss Lackey was undecided today what future action she would take. She believes the boys were influenced in their decision to leave her.

"It is impossible they should have changed so completely," she said. "They always have insisted that they wanted to stay with me."

Ricci and his wife had maintained that Miss Lackey was giving the boys too much work, and that the concert tour she arranged for Ruggiero was a heartless commercial venture.

Frederick H. Bartlett, wealthy Chicago oil operator, has promised to continue aiding the boys financially if they remain under the care of their parents.

LONG LIST OF APPOINTMENTS

William Doak Heads List As Secretary of Labor

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—(UP)—The nomination of William N. Doak, of Virginia to succeed Senator James J. Davis, Republican, Pennsylvania, as secretary of labor was sent to the senate today by President Hoover for confirmation.

Doak's name headed a long list of appointments. Second in importance was the nomination of former Ambassador Henry P. Fletcher of Pennsylvania as chairman of the new tariff commission. Four other nominations to the tariff body also were included.

The others named to the bipartisan commission were former chairman Edgar B. Brossard and John Lee Coulter, Republicans, and Alfred P. Dennis and Thomas Walker Page, Democrats.

There have been indications the American Federation of Labor may organize a contest against Doak in the senate, although thus far no steps have been taken openly along this line.

Members of the independent Republican group in the senate have indicated they may contest the confirmation of some members of the tariff commission.

The following other nominations were submitted at the same time:

J. Reuben Clark, Jr., of Utah, to be ambassador to Mexico; Hoffman Phillips, New York, as minister to Norway; Nicholas Roosevelt, New York, minister to Hungary; J. Butler Wright, Wyoming, minister to Uruguay and Eugene Meyer Jr., New York, to be governor of the Federal Reserve board; Randolph Brant, federal judge, eastern district of Texas; G. L. Lowman, judge, second district, Alaska.

Paul H. Creswell, marshal for the southern district of Ohio; Herbert E. Tomba, marshal southern district Texas.

Charles D. Mahaffie and Frank McManamy of the District of Columbia renominated as members of the Interstate Commerce commission.

Floyd R. Harrison, renominated as member of the federal farm loan board.

David Barnett, to be commissioner of internal revenue, for Ohio; Harry J. Amslinger, to be commissioner of narcotics for Pennsylvania; E. T. Clark, to be collector of customs, Bridgeport, Conn.

Lawrence A. Glenn, Illinois, and Lieut. Col. George R. Spalding, engineer corps, to be members of the Mississippi river commission.

Charles E. Mitchell, West Virginia.

CABINET MEMBERS
GUESTS AT DINNER

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—(UP)—A brilliant cabinet dinner at the White House last night ushered in the capitol's social season. The event was followed up quickly today with receptions by wives of cabinet officers at their homes.

The season just beginning seems likely to be notable. Last year social activities were curtailed during mourning periods for Chief Justice Taft and Secretary of War Good.

Forty-eight guests were at the dinner party while 50 others came later for a musicale in the east room.

Sen. James J. Davis, former secretary of labor, and James N. Doak, appointed to that cabinet position but not yet confirmed by the senate, both attended the dinner. The only cabinet member absent was Secretary of Agriculture Hyde, who was out of the city.

Will Strain
Harmony Of
Two Parties

Bourbon Objects to Cabinet Having Increase In Authority

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—(UP)—President Hoover's proposal to permit a cabinet committee to administer $150,000,000 in public works to relieve unemployment was assured today of lively opposition. It appeared likely to provide a severe strain to the program of harmony agreed upon by Republican and Democratic leaders after the November elections.

A breakfast conference of the leaders of both houses probably will be held at the White House within the next few days, not only to speed along the unemployment and drought relief measures but because of President Hoover's desire to promote harmony in his general economy program.

The opposition to the cabinet proposal developed on party lines as soon as President Hoover's message was ready yesterday. Appropriation measures originate in the house and Democratic Floor Leader Gardner showed immediate antagonism to the president's plan.

"We know more about where that money is needed and how it should be spent than the president does," he said.

Another remark reflecting none of the hearty co-operation which Mr. Hoover has been led to expect from Democrats came from Representative Joseph W. Byrns, Democrat, Tennessee, who described the plan as "astounding," saying such powers never had been given except in war time.

Additional funds to speed up public building construction as an aid to unemployment are provided in the first appropriation bill laid before the house today, the billion-dollar measure to care for post office and treasury departments for the next fiscal year.

SEN. DAVIS CASE
NOT CLOSED--NYE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—(UP)—Republicans smiled today and whispered their explanation of why Minority Leader Robinson aligned his Democratic troops to help the administration stoop James J. Davis in the senate.

Meanwhile Chairman Nye of the senate campaign funds committee, characterizing the senate action as an insult to his committee, made it known that the Davis case was not closed.

Two witnesses have been called for today to testify regarding Davis' primary expenses and Nye arranged to hear the testimony of Samuel Vauclain, chairman of the Davis-Brown committee last spring in New York tomorrow. Today's witnesses were G. F. Weaver, Philadelphia lawyer, and W. R. Douglas, assistant to Vauclain.

There has been talk of Democratic dissatisfaction with Robinson's leadership. If the Davis vote had been on a major legislative issue there might today be predictions that Robinson soon would fall. Only 29 Democrats followed orders to support Davis.

A superintendent's cottage at Lone was bid on for $13,375 by the Biltmore Construction company, Berkeley, with Luppen and Hawley, Sacramento, bidding $1250 on electrical work.

A gymnasium at the San Jose school was bid on by J. J. Graham and company, of Alameda, at a figure of $97,995 for general construction work. Guilbert Brothers, San Francisco, had a low bid of $6335 for electrical work and William F. Serpa, San Jose, bid $15,525 for plumbing, heating and ventilating.

REPORTS PLOT
FOR DIVISION OF LITHUANIA

Would Be Given Foreign Nations For War On Soviet

BY EUGENE LYONS
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

MOSCOW, Dec. 3.—A purported plot for dismemberment of the nation among foreign powers as compensation for an interventionist war on the Soviet was described by the state prosecutor today as the trial of eight confessed counter-revolutionists went into secret session.

The indictment presented by the prosecutor, Nicholas Krilenko, charged that the counter-revolutionist plot called for Poland to receive Lithuanian territory after using the Polish-Lithuanian boundary dispute as a pretext for starting a war which would immediately involve Russia and Roumania.

While the testimony concerning the part supposed to have been played by foreign nations in the "interventionist plot" was given behind closed doors, the confession of Leonid Ramzin, one defendant, specifically charged that a Polish invasion of Lithuania was foreseen by the schemers as one convenient pretext for embroiling the Soviets.

Ramzin swore that "by seizing Lithuania, which continues to adhere to Soviet orientation, Poland would precipitate an international conflict in which the Soviet union necessarily would be involved. It would cause armed conflict in which the Soviet union would face Poland as well as Roumania, which is linked to Poland by a military agreement."

There has been a boundary dispute between Poland and Lithuania since the war, sometimes threatening grave consequences, while Soviet demands for return of Russian territory included in the post-war boundaries of Roumania has thrown that country into line with Poland—the once "partitioned" nation—in opposition to the Soviet.

The secret testimony also will explain the supposed plans for division of certain Russian territory as compensation to the intervening powers.

The present "pacification" of the Ukrainian population in Poland (where charges have been made of Polish terrorism recently) also was involved in the testimony to be considered. All of the defendants agreed that the conspirators considered handing over some millions of other Ukrainians to Poland as payment for its part in the plot for overthrow of the Soviets.

Rumors that none of the eight engineers who have confessed will be executed were circulated widely today as the court went into secret session.

BILL TODAY

Three Enforcement Groups Provided For In Measure Under Consideration

Hoover Sends Annual Budget Message to Congress Asking $4,000,000,000

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—(UP)—The federal government plans to spend approximately $50,000,000 for prohibition enforcement during the next fiscal year.

Appropriation of about $28,000,000 for three phases of enforcement—the coast guard, customs service and industrial alcohol unit of the treasury—is provided in the treasury and post office appropriation bill which the house began to consider today.

In addition, congress must provide in a later bill for the two phases of enforcement under the justice department—the federal prohibition bureau, appropriations for which are expected to total about $11,500,000 and prosecution work, which is expected to aggregate about $10,000,000.

On total appropriations, $32,897,582, provided for the coast guard, undersecretary of treasury Ogden Mills estimated before the appropriations committee that $16,000,000 would be used for prohibition enforcement, it was revealed today. The coast guard appropriation is $195,526 more than last year.

An appropriation of $4,514,420 is provided for the industrial alcohol unit under Dr. James M. Doran. The customs bureau receives $23,983,600 of which it is estimated more than $7,000,000 is for prohibition enforcement.

In explaining an increase of $475,680 for the industrial alcohol unit to the appropriations committee, Dr. Doran said that prohibition enforcement would cost more with the authority divided between the treasury and justice departments now in separate bureaus.

Doran said he believed enforcement would be more efficient under the new system. He testified that his bureau is having trouble now with diversion of alcohol made from finished products like lacquer finish and disinfectants. Over 90 per cent of alcohol in the illegal trade comes from sugar, principally corn sugar, he said.

Rear Admiral Frederick G. Billard, commandant of the coast guard, told the committee the coast guard had seized 299 vessels for rum-running during the past year.

As a result of his advocacy of additional equipment, the committee included in the bill $800,000 for completion of the last 10 vessels authorized in 1926, and $600,000 for new patrol boats and seaplanes. Two new seaplanes are provided. The coast guard now has five which are used in spotting rum runners.

The narcotics bureau is providing for the next fiscal year.

City Council To Open Free Employment Office Here

HOPE TO HELP IDLE IN CITY THROUGH MOVE

A serious attempt to meet the unemployment situation in Santa Ana will be launched on Friday, when a free employment office is to be opened under the direction of the city council, with headquarters at 115 North Main street, for the purpose of finding out the exact needs of the people, and discovering work for as many of them as can possibly be used.

been fortunate in securing the aid of R. R. Miller, manager of the Community Chest, as director of the office. He will be assisted by representatives of the various welfare agencies in the city, and with their aid and the co-operation of the general public, he hopes to put into effect a comprehensive and effective plan for dealing with unemployment.

The first work to be done, which will be started on Friday morning, is the systematic registration of all the local people who need employment. No attempt will be made to handle applicants from outside the city, as this is primarily an undertaking to meet the need of local citizens.

A second task will be to find out every sort of work that can be discovered in the community. In this the co-operation of every citizen is requested. Odd jobs of all kinds, for both men and women, as well as permanent work, both skilled and unskilled, will be needed to furnish places for the applicants, and it is only by general co-operation that these jobs can be made available.

Householders with work to be done in house or yard, ranchers with trimming, cultivation or any sort of labor to be done, merchants and business men in general who can make up any sort of useful tasks for which wages can be paid all can help by reporting promptly to the employment office and using the appropriate labor.

A careful study will be made of the applications as they are filed, to determine which are most in need of work, by reason of families dependent on them, and in so far as possible, the work will be allocated in proportion to the needs of those seeking employment.

The city trustees emphasize the fact that they are not attempting to provide work for all applicants, but to try to care for local residents. It would be manifestly impossible to undertake to find work for the transients, and it is further pointed out by the members of the committee that they are in no sense miracle workers, and that they can only do their best. They cannot promise to manufacture jobs, nor to provide immediate relief for the unemployment situation.

It will take a few days to get the plan working smoothly, and the trustees request that patience be exercised while the start is being made. They regard the present situation as an emergency in which they are under obligations to take every means to aid in the welfare of the people of this community, and they believe that with mutual co-operation and understanding they will be able to do a great deal within the next few weeks to clear up the difficulties which now exist.

The office will open Friday morning at 9 o'clock, for the registration of applicants, and the program of placement will go forward just as rapidly as is humanly possible with the force of workers that can be used on the task.

FLOOD ENGINEERS TO COME FRIDAY

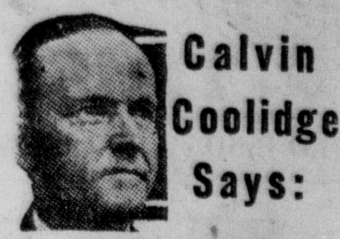

Members of the consulting board of engineers appointed last spring by the board of supervisors in connection with the county flood control work, are expected to arrive in Santa Ana next Friday for additional study of the problems involved in reaching a recommendation of a plan to be adopted by the county, it was announced today by Willard Smith, chairman of the board of supervisors.

Engineers comprising the personnel of the board are George Elliot and Thomas Means, of San Francisco, and E. A. Etcheverry, of Berkeley. They have made several trips to the county in the past, making observations and securing data in connection with the problem which they are giving their attention. They have also studied the Bailey plan, which was defeated at the polls in 1929, and have had a hearing with F. C. Finkle, engineer of the Orange County Water Users' association, which fought the bond issue at the election.

MONTHLY HOSPITAL REPORT RECORDED

The report of the Orange county hospital for the month of November showing the indigent record was filed today with County Clerk J. M. Backs. It shows that there were 188 patients in the institution under this classification on November 1, that 223 were received during the month, and that 197 were there on November 30.

During the month, the report reveals, 379 patients were discharged, 24 died and 11 were sent to state institutions. There were 411 indigent patients cared for during the month. Of these admitted during the month, 86 were men, 50 were women, 52 were between the ages of six and 15, and 35 were under six.

Calvin Coolidge Says:

BY CALVIN COOLIDGE
Former President of the United States
NORTHAMPTON, Dec. 3.—

The report that the railroads are to assume a more aggressive attitude in the assertion of their rights and the protection of their property is an encouraging development.

A generation ago the railroads were found to be interfering too much in governmental action which in no way concerned them. They were charged with being in politics when they should have been only in transportation. In reforming themselves, they went so far in the opposite direction that their business and, therefore, the public welfare have suffered.

Railroad representatives at Washington have been able and wise, but under the present policy not always assertive. The important legislation of 10 years ago came from the initiative of a voluntary association of savings banks and insurance companies holding railroad securities. If the railroads can now speak for themselves, it indicates a return of sane public confidence in transportation management which will benefit the country. Holding one-twentieth of the national wealth the railroads can do more for the welfare of the wage earner, agriculturist and industry than any other single agency. We do not want any return of railroad political activity but we do need such action as will protect their interests in legislation and regulation.

TAXI DRIVER IS FINED BY JUDGE

That the city ordinance which prohibits taxi cab companies from picking up passengers in groups in Santa Ana is a valid ordinance was indicated in Judge J. F. Talbot's court yesterday when he found Roscoe Cook, taxi driver for the Owl Taxi Company guilty of violating that section of the ordinance. Cook was fined $5.

"The ordinance calls for a fine of not more than $300, Judge Talbot said. 'But, I think that is preposterous, so I will fine you $5,' the court said.

Ernest Davis, proprietor of the taxi cab company made a statement to The Register today indicating that he would appeal the case to the superior court.

The complaining witness in the case was C. H. Eckles, owner of the Santa Ana Bus company, who charged that Cook, on November 1, carried two passengers on the same trip to two different destinations, an alleged infraction of the ordinance.

SURRENDERS AFTER RUNNING OVER GIRL

Two hours after the car he is said to have been driving, ran over Doris Estrada, 15 year old girl, at Central avenue and Meador streets, Delhi, Julio Mendez, 19, of Delhi, surrendered at the city police station. He was booked as a "hit and run" driver.

The girl was said to have been walking on the sidewalk at the time. The car Mendez was driving ran up on the sidewalk when it struck her, according to the police. No charge had been placed against Mendez when he walked into police station, as no report of the accident had been filed at that time.

BUDGET MESSAGE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—(UP)—President Hoover transmitted to congress today a record peace budget of nearly $4,000,000,000 for the 1932 fiscal year and recommended against continuing the one percent tax cut effective this year.

Appropriations for the 1932 fiscal year which begins next July 1 were placed at $3,932,342,411 which is $221,000,000 more than current expenditures in this fiscal year.

Principal items in the increase included $100,000,000 additional for the federal farm board, $110,000,000 increase for war veterans, $51,000,000 for new roads, and $35,000,000 for the United States Shipping board.

Expenditures of the federal government in the 1932 fiscal year were estimated at $4,054,510,200 and receipts were placed at $4,085,119,927. Appropriations are less than estimated expenditures because the government will have available several continuing funds for which no new appropriations are necessary.

For the current fiscal year which ends June 30, the president estimated the government will have a deficit of $180,000,000 as a result of reduced receipts due to business depression and added expenses to relieve unemployment and veterans.

Looking to the 1932 fiscal year, the president estimated the government would end its fiscal year June 30, 1932, with the slim surplus of $30,600,000. He warned that this margin may be easily reduced by emergency government expenditures.

"This is not a time when we can afford to embark upon any new or enlarged ventures of government," Mr. Hoover said. "It will tax our every resource to expand in directions providing employment in the next few months upon already authorized projects."

AID FOR VETERANS
WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—(UP)—Government activities in behalf of war veterans account for the largest increase in appropriation in the 1932 budget.

For the veterans administration, the President's budget message estimated total appropriation of $946,289,758, which will be $109,620,000 more than spent for veterans in this fiscal year.

The federal farm board, which has $250,000,000 of the half billion dollars revolving fund asked for an additional $100,000,000 in this budget.

The national defense estimate was $689,084,000.

Appropriations Rise
WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—(UP)—Appropriations in the 1932 fiscal year will increase $221,000,000 to a peace time record total of $3,932,342,411, the president's budget message to congress revealed today.

This will include $28,883,000 for the legislative establishment and $1,148,854,811 for the executive office and independent establishments. Total appropriations are $3,618,335,563 for operation of all government departments, district of Columbia, and all ordinary expenses of the federal establishment.

To this is added public debt retirement of $468,509,905 plus $581,000,000 interest paid on the $16,000,000,000 debt. From this grand total is deducted $735,000,000 for postal service payable from postal revenues.

CONGRESS TO CUT
WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—(UP)—Congressional leaders have informed President Hoover they are going to cut next year's government expenses below the figures he set for them in the budget message he is sending to them today.

In view of the somewhat strained condition of the treasury, Mr. Hoover has given his consent to pairing wherever possible without interfering with the general program.

On stipulation of opposing counsel, Judge G. K. Scovel today awarded judgment to the plaintiffs in two actions which came up for trial in department three of superior court. 40 Brotherhood Members Attend Dinner Meeting

A group of 40 men were present for the meeting of the Christian church Men's Brotherhood, last night in the educational unit of the church. Following a dinner, served by the women of the church, there was a short business session under the direction of Guy Penn, president, at which a constitution, read by the secretary, Charles Hill, was adopted. During the entertainment and fellowship session, at which George Gould presided, there was a short skit staged by Dr. Ralph Murane and Mrs. Horace Leeding, two solos by Charles Hill and two readings by Mrs. Martha Raymond.

The feature of the evening was an address by the Rev. Harry Evan Owings, pastor of the First Baptist church, who spoke on "When Is a Man a Man?" The speaker declared that the measure of a man was the height of his ideals, the breadth of his sympathies and the depth of his convictions.

DEATHS

A WORD OF COMFORT

The lessons which you have been learning these last few days are not new. Wives and husbands, parents and children, lovers and friends, have been initiated into them since the beginning of time.
This does not make your experience any easier, but it does suggest the assurance that the God, who has sustained others, will not desert you, and that His tender care will be adequate to give you the power to go on.
You have often wondered whether you would have the courage to face these hard hours, if they should come. Now you are discovering that God bestows strength for the hour. Henceforth you will love and trust Him as never before.

MERCHANTS TO LAUNCH DRIVE IN SANTA ANA

The Santa Ana Lions Club plan to stimulate business in Santa Ana during "Business Confidence Month" which starts here tomorrow, was today told by Norman Sprowl, Fox theater manager, who is chairman of the Lions' Club committee, fostering the enterprise. Five hundred $1 bills, placarded, will be distributed to merchants and their friends who attend the "Business Confidence Month" luncheon to be served at the American Legion home on Birch street, at noon tomorrow, when the enterprise is officially launched and these bills will be circulated throughout the entire city, Sprowl said.

"The pessimists will probably claim that a dollar won't travel very far, or won't buy anything in this day and age," Sprowl said. "But, it is our plan to make this dollar turn over 10 times a day during the month of December. Five hundred $1 bills, each one being spent 10 times each day in Santa Ana," Sprowl explained.

"When dollars are sold for $1 to some 500 persons at the luncheon, they are to make a promise that they will immediately take that dollar and spend it with a merchant immediately after luncheon. The merchant in turn will spend the dollar immediately and it will be kept in circulation" he said.

"Every one of the dollars will be numbered and the placards will bear the inscription—'I am the Just Imagine Dollar, Spend Me Quick.' Each time the dollars are spent the person spending them will be asked to explain to the person from whom they buy, the purpose of the 'Just Imagine' dollar and thereby keep it moving."

"At 5:30 p. m. each day the merchant with whom the card rests at that time will call 853 (the telephone number of the Fox West Coast theater) and give a detailed report of where the dollar has been during the day and what it purchased. On the back of the placard is space for the explanations of each sale. The reports will be printed daily in The Register," said Sprowl.

The plan has the endorsement of all service clubs in the city with the exception of the Santa Ana Rotary club, which did not take action, and Sprowl is of the opinion that the plan will mean a spending of at least $2500 in Santa Ana every day.

As an added inducement for spending the dollars, the person holding the card after it has been spent 99 times will be given free passes to the Fox West Coast theater to see El Brendel in "Just Imagine," one of the wonder pictures of the year, which is booked here in the near future, Sprowl announced.

Plans for the banquet set for tomorrow are completed, it was announced by the Lions' Club committee today. Vaudeville entertainment is to be furnished by the Fox West Coast theater and the program is one of the liveliest that has been arranged for a meeting of this kind in the past several years. Tickets for the banquet can be obtained from Harry Hansen at the First National Bank.

Meeks Denies He Was In Folsom Last Few Years

Robert Meeks, brother of Bert Meeks, who was killed near Smelter Sunday night by Albert Sutherland, today complained of a story in yesterday's edition of The Register, which indicated that he was recently released from Folsom prison.

Meeks had been residing in Sacramento until a few weeks ago and returned here from there, not from Folsom prison, as the story indicated, he said. Meeks declared he was released from Folsom in 1927.

MASONS TO LAY CORNER STONE NEXT FRIDAY

More than 1000 Masons, drawn from all parts of the Southland, including members of the grand lodge, are expected to gather here next Friday for the laying of the cornerstone of the $300,000 new Santa Ana Masonic temple, inquiries revealed today.

The ceremonies will be preceded by a session of the grand lodge of California, to be held at the Odd Fellows hall, and presided over by Grand Master John Stewart Ross, of San Francisco, who is coming down for the occasion. Following the session of the grand lodge, the various Masonic bodies, led by the Santa Ana high school band and a body of Knights Templar in full uniform, will march to the building site, located at Fifth and Sycamore, where the ceremonies will be conducted under the auspices of the Santa Ana Masonic Temple association.

The cornerstone will be placed in position by Grand Master Ross, to be followed by a special program prepared for the occasion.

Plans for entertaining the members of the grand lodge and distinguished visiting Masons at a banquet, originally scheduled to have been held at St. Ann's Inn, had to be abandoned due to the lack of suitable facilities in the city. Dr. L. L. Whitson, secretary of the Masonic Temple association, in charge of the arrangements, announced.

Included among papers to be deposited in the cornerstone are a copy of the roster of the Santa Ana Masonic Temple association, copies of documents showing ownership of the property, a list of the various Masonic bodies in the city and their officers, and a copy of the Santa Ana Register, inquiries revealed.

will be held this afternoon at a funeral parlor in Downey. In the meantime, Walker is being held in the county jail in Los Angeles, booked for suspicion of manslaughter. No charge will be officially made against him until the result of the inquest is known, it was said.

A number of Santa Ana friends of Walker's were attending the inquest this afternoon. The accident occurred near Downey late Sunday afternoon. Walker is alleged to have failed to make a boulevard stop, his car crashing into the Hicks truck, on which Mr. and Mrs. Hicks were riding. Mrs. Hicks was seriously injured but will recover.

REMODEL WORK ON ST. ANN'S TO START AT ONCE

Work on remodeling St. Ann's Inn for use as an annex to the court house, is to be started late this week or early next week, it was learned today from Supervisor Charles Chapman, who is in charge of the work. The Inn ceased operation Sunday night and its equipment is being sold at auction. Only a few men will be used in shifting the partitions and making the changes converting the old hostelry into county offices, Chapman stated, as the work will not be extensive.

The board of supervisors yesterday decided against a request of the judges for reserving eight bedrooms on the third floor for use of juries which were not able to reach agreements and were held over night. It was pointed out in refusing this request that juries have been held over night only two times in the past four years. Chapman advised that all the space in the building would be required for county use and that requests from various outside organizations such as the G. A. R., Spanish War Veterans, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Disabled American Veterans, D. A. R., federated clubs and the county historical society would have to be refused.

According to American Motorists' association, the average life of automobiles is six years and nine months.

BOOSTERS URGE COUNTY SURVEY ON NEW SCHOOL

A number of the leading educators of the county, together with members of the Associated Chamber of Commerce committee on education which promulgated the idea of a union junior college in the county, appeared before the board of supervisors yesterday afternoon further endorsing the proposed county educational survey in connection with the matter, which was sought from the board some two months ago.

The board was addressed by Dr. F. W. Hart, of the education department of the University of California, who has conducted a number of surveys and who pointed out the advantages which might be expected to follow if the board decides to have one made in Orange county. Dr. Hart declared that the purpose of a survey was to make an investigation and determine facts to be used in the solution of any particular problem and the development of a program based on the results of the survey. He asserted that the present day solution of educational problems demands practices similar to those of industrial and commercial institutions which determine the facts before making investments. The survey would find the facts and make an interpretation so that development of a definite program might result.

"The junior college problem is comparatively young," he said, "and it is hardly possible to make a survey devoted entirely to the junior college, as it is only part of the program. The survey will have to start with the elementary and high schools to determine the needs of the junior college and how they may best be met."

"Studies will be made of the growth and distribution of population in the county; need of junior colleges, size and location and what may be expected in the future. Spot maps will be made to show the residential distribution of students in the various districts. The study will also include transportation facilities; organization and administrative policies of the school districts; courses offered in the two colleges; comparison with other junior colleges in comparable counties in the state; equipment buildings, capacity and percentage in use; number and percent of high school graduates attending the junior colleges; ability of the county to support the program, budget and cost analysis of the districts; and the effort expended in various districts to support the educational program.

"With these facts at hand there could be evolved a proposed solution of the problem. The survey might indicate to school officials other desirable changes for improvement."

In answer to an inquiry by Chairman Willard Smith, Dr. Hart stated that the survey would reveal what should be expected over a 10-year period as to equipment, location and growth. Smith also stated that he believed a meeting should be held in the future to work out a plan and reach an agreement before any start should be made.

The proposition was endorsed by Ralph McFadden, chairman of the associated chambers committee which has been working on the matter, who declared that the survey was desired by this body.

It was learned today that a survey, which is part of a national survey sponsored by the U. S. bureau of education, is under way in California and that Orange county has been selected as one of the five in the state to be included. This information was announced by D. K. Hammond, president of the Santa Ana Junior college, who attended the state convention of junior college officials recently where this information was learned.

The survey in California is under the direction of W. M. Proctor, of the educational department of Stanford university, and is particularly a study to determine the proper unit for administration larger than a county. The five counties in California, including Orange county, are to be studied to find out units now in use and the trends in the next few years. Proctor is to draw his conclusions from the study as to the ideal unit to be recommended.

This survey would in general lines be somewhat similar to the survey as outlined before the board by Dr. Hart, Hammond stated today, but it would not be so intensive and might possibly be very superficial. Proctor's study is largely made from reports in the state office of education rather than from conditions in the field, he said.

Shortly before adjournment of the board last evening, Chairman Smith reported receipt of an invitation to meet with the educators of the county at the Santa Ana high school at 2 p. m. on December 10 to develop a plan in connection with the proposed survey. The board decided, however, to let the schools work the matter out alone and bring in a complete plan for its approval. Those included in the various delegations appearing before the board in connection with the survey were Dr. John Ball, president of the Santa Ana board of education; Superintendent J. A. Cranston, Assistant Superintendent Percy R. Davis, James S. Tuffree, of the Fullerton board of education; A. Haven Smith, principal of the Orange union high school; J. S. Malcolm, principal of the San Juan Capistrano high school and president of the Associated Chambers of Commerce; Joe Vavra, of Huntington Beach; Ralph McFadden, J. P. Greeley, W. C. Jerome, T. E. Stephenson, members of the associated chambers of commerce committee.

Decoration Of Streets Starts In Santa Ana

Several crews of workmen today began to string wires for the annual Christmas holiday illumination of the downtown shopping district, which will be ushered in next Friday night with the turning on of 5000 multi-colored lights. It was announced by R. Earl Ruddy, secretary-manager of the Business Men's association, which organization has charge of the arrangements.

Altogether 19 blocks will be decorated for the holiday season, in which connection more than 300 twelve-foot trees and unlimited yardage of evergreen garlands will be used to create the customary Christmas atmosphere.

The big event will open at 7 o'clock sharp when the lights will be turned on and the downtown streets will be thrown open to the thousands of shoppers that are expected to crowd the traffic lanes of the shopping district. Music for the occasion will be furnished by several bands and the American Legion Drum Corps.

7500 Visit Art Gallery During Month November

Seven thousand five-hundred visitors were received at the Henry E. Huntington library and art gallery, San Marino, during November it was announced today at the exhibitions office.

Officials pointed out that the average number of visitors during November and December is lower than during the winter and summer seasons, thus making December a particularly desirable time for visits of residents of Southern California. Cards of admission for Tuesdays, Wednesdays, Thursdays and Fridays in December are immediately available on application. Educational groups, Women's clubs and Garden clubs desiring cards of admission may also obtain them on short notice, and visitors on these days will enjoy the exhibits in the galleries more because of the smaller number present. Cards of admission will be sent at once to those stating the number of cards required and the day or week which will be satisfactory. An addressed, stamped envelope for return of cards should be enclosed with each request.

HOME MUTUAL LOAN CONCERN CHANGES HANDS

Announcement of the sale of the Home Mutual Building and Loan Association of Santa Ana to the Fidelity Savings and Loan Association of Los Angeles, involving a turn over of nearly $600,000, was made today by P. G. Beisel, president and manager of the local organization.

According to Beisel, the new owners paid $225 a share for the stock of local concern, which is $100 above recent quotations of the stock, rated at $125 a share shortly before the opening of negotiations leading to the present sale. As a result of the negotiations, the stockholders made a clean profit of $250,000, or $100 a share. Some of the profits collected by some of the stockholders, having large holdings, amounted to a small fortune, it was explained.

The stockholders were given their choice of either taking cash or preferred stock of the Fidelity Savings and Loan Association for their holdings. While a considerable number of stockholders took cash for their holdings, others took part cash and stock of the new owners, subscriptions amounting to $160,000. Checks for the stock holdings of the local concern were being mailed out today to stockholders in Santa Ana.

Beisel announced that the policy of the new owners is to conduct the Santa Ana branch of the Fidelity Savings and Loan Association as a local institution, under the present management and with the office force now employed. In this connection, Beisel added that he has signed a five year contract to serve as local manager of the Santa Ana branch.

BUENA PARK TAXPAYERS TO BE GIVEN REFUND ON THEIR WATER DISTRICT ASSESSMENT

Tax payers from the Buena Park district who were present during the afternoon session of the board of supervisors in connection with the hearing on their petition for cancellation of the $2 assessment tax rate in the Buena Park water district, went home happy late yesterday afternoon with the assurance of the board that all moneys paid on this particular item would be refunded.

The group yesterday numbering about 50 persons, backed up heartily the protest at the rate made before the board last week, declaring that it was not needed to secure funds for operation of the business of the district, and asserting that the assessment of $2 per $100 of valuation had been made in error and should be cancelled. The matter was presented by Attorney Charles Swanner, who conducted an examination before the board to bring out the facts.

Swanner asserted that similar assessments at Capistrano and Garden Grove had been cancelled and that this one should be. He also declared that the state law provided that unpaid taxes, where the assessments had been made erroneously, might be cancelled by the board. He pointed out that the budget submitted to the board by the trustees of the water district called for estimated expenditures of $9300 with an additional $5700 for another well and equipment, the latter item being one which the taxpayers of the district felt was unnecessary at this time. There were estimated revenue of $8000 and a balance on hand of approximately $4000, which he declared would be ample to finance the district for the year without an additional assessment.

Affidavits concerning conditions in the district with reference to the water supply available for the two wells now in operation were submitted, carrying the signatures of S. E. Shaffer, John W. Siddall and John Mitchell.

Persons who testified at the hearing included L. G. Bixby, superintendent of the water district, Ralph P. Maskey, president of the Buena Park Taxpayers' league, Jack Golden and County Auditor W. C. Jerome. Maskey and Golden both asserted that they believed no assessment was necessary in the district this year. Jerome declared that the rate set was one requested by the advisory board of the district and that his office was the victim of warring factions in Buena Park. He pointed out that his office had no control over the budget of the district and merely kept the books on the matter. The auditor asserted that the rate was set on the information furnished by the designated officers of the district and that the only information his office had ever received was that this was the amount which was desired. The rate fixed together with the estimated revenue of the district and the balance on hand would make available about $22,000, he said. Jerome also stated that an assessment against the Garden Grove district had not been made, and that the Capistrano assessment was made before the bonds were sold and that after the sale of the bonds there was plenty of money on hand.

Deputy District Attorney W. F. Menton, who was present at the hearing advised the board that if it determined after the hearing that an error had been made in the assessment, it could cancel the assessment according to law. The assessment would be an error of the board of supervisors or its representatives, he pointed out, as that body is the one fixing the rates and is the official board of directors for the district.

Supervisor William Schumacher declared that the rate should be cancelled if it could legally be done. The action of the board in the matter followed a period of consultation and argument on the legal phase of the matter, in which it was brought out that those who had already paid their taxes could not secure refunds if the rate was cancelled. A final conference in the committee room resulted in the solution which was adopted.

The resolution which was finally adopted provided that "proof having been made to the board of supervisors that the rate of $2 on the $100 of assessed valuation in the water district is excessive and unnecessary and that were returning to get another pint, when the door suddenly was pulled open and the shotgun fired.

The district attorney's office is being represented by Leo J. Feils and Preston K. Turner, while Sutherland is represented by Attorney D. G. Wettlin.

Late News From Orange County Communities

CITY COUNCIL VOTES SPADRA IMPROVEMENTS

FULLERTON, Dec. 3.—Authorizing the city clerk and city engineer to make plans for laying larger mains and installing additional fire hydrants in the North Spadra district, the Fullerton city council last night took steps to improve the water system in that section prior to the widening project, which is expected to be started soon.

The recommendation for the improvement of the water system in the North Spadra section was made by the water committee, which stated that any type of water system improvement should be completed before the street widening project was started. It was pointed out that some of the mains should be replaced with larger pipe now so that the street would not be torn up after the widening had been completed. According to the recommendation, the pipe would be laid in the parkings which will later be a portion of the street when the widening is started.

Estimates for the work of laying the new mains, taking up the smaller mains and installing additional fire hydrants amounted to approximately $738. Extra supplies of pipe from the other water projects throughout the city might be utilized for the purpose, it was reported.

With the first unit of the city water system expansion program now completed, work on the second unit of the work in the northwest section of the city will be started next Monday, Grover L. Walters, city water superintendent, reported to the council. The plan used on the first unit of employing local labor to dig lines for the new mains will be used in the second unit, it was decided by the council.

REALTORS TO SEEK FACTS ON TITLES

LAGUNA BEACH, Dec. 3.—Two communications from the chamber of commerce constituted a major part of the discussion before the Realty board Tuesday noon at the White House cafe.

The first of these was the letter asking the board to take up the matter of Torrens titles and bring it before the state association. The difficulties in getting action were discussed, with the final decision to refer it to C. Hartwell Smith to present to Glenn D. Wilkman, secretary of the state association, asking to be guided in the proper steps to pursue.

The other letter from the chamber of commerce asked the board to have representatives present Friday evening when the former body will bring up city planning as a project to be seriously considered and a plan of presentation worked out. A number of those at the board meeting promised to attend the chamber meeting.

Eight promised to be present at the Santa Ana Country club Dec. 18 at 8:30 o'clock when President Elect D. D. Watson of the state association is to be present as guest of the Santa Ana realtors. Various minor communications were disposed of, and dues of the library association.

County, State Asked For Highway Aid

FULLERTON, Dec. 3.—A resolution, formally requesting aid from the state and county in the North Spadra road widening project, was adopted by the city council at the meeting last evening. State and county officials have already expressed the opinion that the financial aid will be given although the formal petition to the state and county bodies must be made, it was pointed out. It is believed that the work on the project will be under way as soon as funds have been secured and the plans for the project completed.

DIRECTORS FOR C. OF C. NAMED IN BUENA PARK

BUENA PARK, Dec. 3.—C. L. McComber, Jack Golden, J. A. Warlaumont, W. D. Cannon and William Mitchell were elected directors of the Buena Park Chamber of Commerce for a two-year term at the meeting in the civic building Tuesday evening.

This group will meet with the directors elected last year some time during the month and elect officers for the new year. Directors to serve another year are Henry Schmitz, Richard Nelson, C. H. Moriarty, O. A. Stone and J. H. Page.

The proposition of improving 16 miles of Buena Park streets with rock finish in a road improvement district including the paving of Commonwealth and Manchester avenues was not considered advisable as arrangements had already been made for the county to improve these streets on a cash basis and although the project of graveling the local streets was considered well worth while it was not deemed advisable to go further into the proposition at this time. The estimated cost of the 16-mile project was $150,000.

Report was made that the county is working on the roadbed of the road north to La Habra. The city of Fullerton is improving Arctia street west from Magnolia and also Magnolia avenue north of Commonwealth.

C. A. Stone, C. H. Story and C. Crumrine were appointed on the auditing committee. Richard Nelson, DeWitt Vorhees and O. A. Stone will represent the chamber of commerce on the Community Christmas program committee. A meeting has been called for this week of representatives of the various organizations in the community, by the chairman, J. A. Warlaumont.

A resolution was adopted to send to Sheriff-elect Jackson requesting his support in the establishing of a sub-station of the sheriff's office in Buena Park.

He pointed out that all types of trades are represented among the unemployed who are daily seeking employment. Twenty of the applicants have already been placed in positions, May said, and approximately 27 more will be employed by the city in the water expansion work, thus relieving the situation. May expressed belief that more demand for labor will be reported to the bureau within the next few weeks.

The lights are to be in two circuits and cover almost the entire east side and also extend along Seventeenth street from Ocean avenue to the Huntington Beach-Santa Ana boulevard.

The Edison company will install the 250 candlepower lights on steel poles, the lights extending out on arms from the poles. At dangerous intersections the arms will extend out 20 feet toward the center of the street and carry a red light as a warning.

The Edison company gets a contract to supply electricity for the lights for a term of five years. The 40 lights now on the east side will be replaced by new lights under the system, but their locations as to street intersections will not be changed.

ABANDON PLANS FOR REMOVAL OF 'COAST RANGE'

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Dec. 3.—Plans for removing the grade dumps along the Pacific Electric right-of-way on Ocean avenue have been abandoned. This miniature "coast range" must remain to obstruct the view of the ocean for a little while longer.

At the adjourned meeting of the city council Tuesday night, President Willis Osborn of the chamber of commerce stated that permission for the work was held up by legal matters and technicalities and probably would have to be abandoned for the time being.

On motion of Councilman Elson G. Conrad the matter was tabled. A vote of thanks was accorded Mr. Osborn, for interest shown in trying to assist in providing jobs for the working men.

Mayor Bowen took occasion to state that the city council had taken cognizance of the suggestion of President Hoover, made to the nation last February, to the effect that work on public projects be speeded up to provide jobs for men.

"The council has expended largely of public funds here," said the mayor, and listed the projects that had been completed, were contracted for, and were in contemplation. "These various works had to be done," said the mayor, but behind every effort of the council a motivating force was the desire to create work in a time of necessity. As the motivating power of all the council does, is this heartfelt desire to relieve the unemployment situation."

Students Respond To Seals Appeal

LAGUNA BEACH, Dec. 3.—Principal G. K. Bingham, had to telephone Mrs. G. E. Dunham of the Christmas seal sale committee here for additional supplies when estimated supplies were quickly exhausted Tuesday. The pupils of the school had been asked if they might like to contribute the value of a chocolate bar or ice cream cone and they responded with more enthusiasm than had been anticipated.

SEAL BEACH

SEAL BEACH, Dec. 3.—Chief of Police E. H. Porter and City Councilman J. P. Putnam have returned from a two-day quail hunting trip at Bill Waffie's homestead near Sage.

Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Robertson, who reside in the city hall apartment, were Mr. Robertson's mother, Mrs. L. O. Claussen, of Huntington Park, and Mrs. A. S. Stearns, of New Mexico. Mrs. Stearns has been touring the United States for the past three months, having visited nearly every state in the Union during that time.

She left Los Angeles Tuesday to return to her home in New Mexico. A social meeting of the American Legion will be held Wednesday evening at the city hall. Members are requested to bring their wives.

Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Hufstle, 332 Eighth street, report that their baby is greatly improved after a severe illness.

Mr. D. F. Slayton visited her daughter-in-law, Mrs. A. L. Slayton, at the Southgate hospital Sunday. The Slaytons' granddaughter arrived early Saturday morning. Mrs. Slayton was accompanied to Southgate by her daughters, Ethel May and Geraldine. The mother of the new baby, Mrs. A. L. Slayton, formerly was Miss Nellie Miller, and is well known in Seal Beach, having spent a number of summers here with her parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Edwards, 2421 Seventh street, spent the week end in Lynwood at the home of Mr. Edwards' parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. Raleigh.

Mr. and Mrs. I. W. Wooding and family, 230 Seventh street, had as their guests Sunday Mrs. H. C. Revis of Sierra Madre, and Mrs. H. J. Wilson, of Bakersfield.

The Christmas bazaar which is sponsored each year by the Woman's Aid will be held all day Thursday at the Community Methodist church. A safteler dinner will be served through the evening, beginning at 5:30.

Mr. Honeywell, of Sunset Beach, broke his leg Saturday when he fell from a platform. Dr. Ernest Green of Seal Beach set the fracture.

FIRE STATION AUTHORIZED BY CITY COUNCIL

FULLERTON, Dec. 3.—Construction of a fire sub-station in the west portion of the city was authorized by the city council last night. The city departments will have charge of the construction of the building, which will house equipment which will be used by a volunteer group of firemen in the west portion of the city.

A communication objecting to having the property owners pay for the expense of laying additional mains to provide water for residents who are not on any of the mains, was received from Mrs. Lee Myers, who requested that the city install mains to her house from the present mains on North Cypress avenue. As her house is located at approximately 600 feet from the present main, it was pointed out that the extra cost would amount to more than $100 to lay the pipe line.

Council members stated that the usual method of having the property owner pay the cost of the mains would have to be carried out in the present case as has been done in the past. Possibility that Mrs. Myers might lay a small private line was suggested by the council. The matter was referred to the water department.

Installation of Christmas decorations on the city streets will be completed soon, it was reported by Harry May, secretary of the chamber of commerce, who stated that the lighted trees will be placed on the streets as was done last year.

Explained, however, that the trees this year will be 12 inches taller than last year, so that they may be seen from behind parked cars. Use of city trucks to haul boxes and for use in other work of decorating was asked by May. The request was referred to the street department, which will co-operate with the chamber in the decorating work.

A permit to place signs at the four entrances to the city was asked by the Fullerton 20-30 club, but it was pointed out that since the signs would be on private property, the city would have no jurisdiction in the matter.

A request for the use of the city park on West Commonwealth avenue by the Odd Fellows next October, when approximately 1,000 men will be here for sessions for approximately a week, was granted.

OCEANVIEW

OCEANVIEW, Dec. 3.—Oceanview school ball teams played Westminster, the Oceanview boys winning by a score of 8-7, while the Oceanview girls lost by a score of 15 to 12 on the same afternoon.

Junior Mooseheart members and adults attended the junior meeting held at Antlers hall, Huntington Beach at which plans for the regular Christmas program and party were arranged.

First and second grade pupils of Oceanview school who won in the recent Parent-Teacher association membership contest were given a party at the school as an award for their 80 per cent membership record in their grades by the P. T. A. Mrs. T. J. Holt was in charge of the party arrangements.

Instead of giving prizes for the many different games and contests introduced during the afternoon, four door prizes were given instead, that each child might have a fairer chance of winning.

Mrs. Murdy and Mrs. Chapman assisted as hostesses while Miss Willemas Adams and Miss Schenck, teachers of the two classes, were guests. Refreshments of jello and cake were served at the party.

Two gas pumps have been installed at the new business building on the Carey tract, Huntington Beach boulevard, which is under construction.

Mrs. Ione Beck and family were at Orange for Thanksgiving. A family turkey dinner was served at the home of Mrs. Beck's mother, and Mrs. Fred Mallett and family were entertained by relatives as guests at Thanksgiving dinner.

Mrs. Mary Buchanan, of Los Angeles, joined a family group on Thanksgiving in the home of her mother, Mrs. Ellen Gotard.

Mr. and Mrs. Homer Hall and son and daughter, of Los Angeles, have remained over the week end as guests in the E. R. Bradbury home, having come down to be with the family over Thanksgiving as Mr. Hall was receiving a vacation at that time.

The total income from the recent Ladies' Aid bazaar stands at $80, additional sales having been made of left over bazaar articles.

LAGUNA BEACH, Dec. 3.—Final report on the 1930 roll call and election of officers for the ensuing year were the principal matters before the Laguna Beach branch of the Red Cross Tuesday forenoon.

That the roll call just finished brought 404 members into the organization as against about 457 last year was a matter upon which the board of directors congratulate themselves, as there had been some doubt expressed as to whether the membership this year could be brought so close to that of last year. As several memberships are still expected, the record is considered satisfactory.

A vote of thanks was passed for the work of those who assisted the directors in making the canvass of the city, and whose work was a great aid in making the record of members.

Mrs. J. N. Isch reported for Mrs. F. D. Pettis of the nominating committee, which consisted of Mrs. Pettis, Mrs. Isch and G. B. Dunham. The recommendation of the committee was that the same board be returned to office. After some discussion a motion to the effect was adopted.

S. S. Wooster as chairman of the branch, Thomas A. Cummings as first vice president, Mrs. G. B. Dunham, retiring president as second vice president, Mrs. Joe Jahraus as secretary and Pily T. Green as treasurer. All but Mr. Green have been members of the board. Miss Alice Parker has been secretary. Both Miss Parker and Mrs. Dunham declined to continue in the offices they have held. Since the organization of the branch more than three years ago, when Mrs. Isch, Miss Van Esso McDowell and Mrs. Dunham were a committee from the Santa Ana chapter of the Red Cross, Mrs. Dunham has been chairman of the branch, which was organized at that time. Miss Ida Bowen, acting as chairman, said the retiring chairman for her work, to which much of the success of the branch here is attributed, was adopted with enthusiasm.

You add the oil a little at a time to prevent the mayonnaise from separating. Hills Bros. roast their coffee a few pounds at a time to prevent variation in flavor. PLAZA LIGHT PROGRAM TOLD CITY COUNCIL

ORANGE, Dec. 3.—A program for lighting the plaza and decorating the square with Christmas trees during the holiday season was outlined to the members of the Orange city council at a meeting of that body at the city hall yesterday afternoon. Alfred Huhn, president of the Orange Community Chamber of Commerce, T. L. Farris, J. Willis Thompson, V. D. Johnson and James Hutchins were among those who explained plans of the merchants for the annual decorations.

Merchants asked and were given the sum of $500 toward the decorations which they said this year would include a large star on the palm tree facing West Chapman avenue and doing away with the dark spot which was evident at this point last year; larger trees the decoration of the beautiful star pine at the east entrance to the Plaza.

It was brought out that all cities in this vicinity are making elaborate preparations for decoration of the streets during the holidays.

V. D. Johnson, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, was granted $21.26 as additional expense on the float which was to have represented the city in the Armistice day parade. One hundred dollars had previously been given for the float, "Alaska," which was destroyed by the high wind of November 10.

A petition was received by property owners the west side of North Lemon street for sidewalk and curb between Walnut and Rose avenues, so that they could have mail delivery. The sidewalks and curb were ordered put in by council members.

An application was made by Fire Chief Al Tomblin for the appointment of W. T. Winslow, traffic officer, as a member of the fire department. The matter was discussed and held over for further consideration.

The fire and water committees were appointed to decide on moving the fire hydrant in front of the First National bank, the

OFFICERS FOR YEAR SELECTED BY ASSOCIATION

OLIVE, Dec. 3.—Olive Improvement association officers were re-elected at the annual meeting in the social hall of St. Paul's Lutheran school Monday night. The meeting was opened with a 6:30 o'clock supper of baked ham, sweet potatoes, pumpkin pie and coffee, served by the Get-Together club. Most of the members present were accompanied by their wives, bringing the number present to about 65.

The chief business of the evening was the election of officers for the coming year. President L. A. Bortz appointed August Lemke, Jack O'Grady and Morris Paves to serve as the nomination committee. The old board was re-nominated and unanimously elected with the exception of Earl Crawford and Dr. L. D. Thomas. The board organized itself as follows: L. A. Bortz, president; Don Peemster, vice president; Theo. Mieger, secretary-treasurer; C. O. Heim, Ben Cole, A. J. Lee and Robert Paulus, directors.

Theodore Mieger reported for the committee on fire protection that prospects were very bright for the purchase of several fire trucks by the state and the forestry department; that the matter of fire hydrants for Olive was still being investigated by the committee.

The financial report shows a substantial balance in the treasury. President L. A. Bortz presented a brief review of the association's activities during its first year.

"The association was organized about 12 years ago by Dr. L. D. Thomas, a most energetic and public-spirited citizen," said Mr. Bortz. "Last April the association was reorganized to foster the community spirit and work for the best interests of the community. Among the objects achieved were the refund from the gas company, which amounted to several thousand dollars; reduction in the water and telephone rates; improvement of streets, particularly the widening of Canyon way at the main intersection; a successful clean-up work was inaugurated;

The matter of widening Canyon way south of the intersection made by the Olive-Anaheim boulevard was given into the hands of a committee composed of C. O. Heim, A. J. Lee and Jack O'Grady.

The business transactions were interspersed with delightful musical numbers rendered by several telephone company employees and Ed Bula on the piano accordion. NEW OFFICERS SELECTED FOR MASONS' LODGE

ORANGE, Dec. 3.—Officers were elected and members of the Orange Grove lodge had the pleasure of hearing a most interesting history of Masonry in early California given by Leon Whitsett, head of the state railroad commission, at a dinner meeting of the organization held at the Masonic hall last night. Dinner was served by members of the Eastern Star and the dessert of baked apples was furnished by Joe Leake, of Yakima, Wash., who brought the fruit with him from that state.

Officers who will serve the lodge for the coming year are as follows: Worshipful master, Sherman Flippen; senior warden, Lucien Flippen; junior warden, Dan Grunwell; secretary, Walter Gregg; treasurer, A. L. Hitchcock. The latter two officers were re-elected. The installation date will be set after the election of officers of the Royal Arch chapter of this city on Friday night and a joint installation of the two lodges is planned.

That the state of California made its initial start through the Masonic order was one of the interesting facts brought out by the speaker, who said that Masons upheld the business and social life of the state in the state's formative stage. The gold rush brought all sort of persons to California, Whitsett said, and it was the Masons who brought order out of this chaos.

The first Mason in California was Abel Stearns, who came here in 1828, the speaker related. Other well known Masons of whom Whitsett told were Kirt Carson, who came to California in 1840; George O. Yount, who came here in 1851, and who built the town of Yountville; Pete Lassen, for whom Mount Lassen was named and who made one of the most important treaties with the Indians; General McLachen, who was a member of the Donner party and General Bidwell, of Chico, who donated Bidwell park to the state.

Other Masons of prominence in the state were Mark Twain, George Darby and John Carr, of Weaverly, Lodge No. 1 was located at San Francisco. The first lodge formed in Southern California was that organized in Anaheim. One of the first Protestant pastors in California was a Mason, Whitsett said, the minister being Sam Brannon, who came around Cape Horn in 1845 and preached in the state during 1845-46. He was a Mormon elder, the speaker said.

George Hinson, of Oklahoma, a 32nd degree Mason, was a visitor at last night's meeting.

CITY WELFARE WORKER NAMED BY COUNCILMEN

ORANGE, Dec. 3.—Appointment of Mrs. Lillian Weltmann as city welfare worker was made at the regular meeting of the Orange city council yesterday, and the sum of $50 a month was appropriated toward her salary. The appointment was made after the matter of the need of welfare work in the city had been presented to council member by O. M. Rodeick, head of the Orange Community Welfare board, who was present with other board members.

Rodeick said that the welfare board included representatives from 35 organizations of the city and he explained in detail the workings of the board, methods of securing employment for the unemployed and the investigation of all cases which come before it.

A permit was requested by W. C. Connell of Los Angeles to establish a restaurant and filling station at the corner of Palm avenue and North Glassell street. Connell said the structure would be built of brick and steel and that the houses at 291 North Glassell street would have to be moved if permission was granted him to put in the business places. He stated that he would move one house off of the lot and the other to the rear of it.

Connell was advised by Mayor Clement to ascertain the desires of residents in the neighborhood for the establishment of the station and restaurant and also to see high school authorities.

The Scarab Murder Case

A PHILO VANCE STORY BY S. S. VAN DINE

Doremus turned the body over and made a careful inspection of the face, the hands, and the clothes.

"Don't see any," he returned laconically. "Was struck from the rear, I'd say. Fell forward, arms outstretched. Didn't move after he'd hit the floor."

"Any chance, doctor, of his having been dead when the statue hit him?" asked Vance.

"Nope." Doremus rose and tested one of his toes impatiently. "Too much blood for that."

"Simple case of assault, then?"

"Looks like it. I'm not a wizard, though." The doctor had become irritable. "The autopsy will settle that point."

"Can we have the post-mortem report immediately?" Markham made the request.

"As soon as the Sergeant gets the body to the mortuary."

"It'll be there by the time you've finished lunch, doc," said Heath. "I ordered the wagon before I left the Bureau."

"That being that, I'll run along." Again Doremus shook hands with Markham and Heath, and throwing a friendly salutation to Vance, walked briskly out of the room.

I had noticed that ever since Heath had placed the statue of Sakhamet to one side he had stood staring intently at the small pool of blood. As soon as Doremus had departed he knelt down and became doggedly interested in something on the floor. He took out his flash-light, which Vance had returned to him, and focussed it on the edge of the blood-pool at the point where I had noted the outward smear. Then, after a moment, he moved a short distance away and shot his light on a faint smudge which stained the yellow wood floor. Once more he shifted his position—this time toward the little spiral stairs. A grunt of satisfaction escaped him now, and rising, he walked, in a wide circle, to the stairs themselves. There he again knelt down and ran the beam of his flash-light over the lower steps. On the third step the ray of light suddenly halted, and the Sergeant's face shot forward in an attitude of intense concentration.

A grin slowly overspread his broad features, and straightening up, he brought a gaze of triumph to bear on Vance.

"I've got the case tied up in a sack now, sir," he announced.

"I take it," replied Vance, "you've found the spoor of the murderer."

"I'll say!" Heath nodded with the deliberate emphasis of finality. "It's just like I told you..."

"Don't be too positive, Sergeant." Vance's face had grown sombre. "The obvious explanation is often the wrong one."

"Yeah?" Heath turned to Sergeant. "Listen, Mr. Scarlett, I got a question to ask you—and I want a straight answer." Scarlett bristled, but the Sergeant paid no attention to his resentment. "What kind of shoes does this Doctor Bliss generally wear around the house?"

Scarlett hesitated, and looked apologetically at Vance.

"Tell the Sergeant whatever you know," Vance advised him. "This no time for reticence. You can trust me. There's no question of disloyalty now. The truth, if see, is all that matters."

Scarlett cleared his throat nervously.

"Rubber tennis shoes," he said, in a low voice. "Ever since his first expedition in Egypt he has had weak feet—they troubled him abominably. He got relief by wearing white canvas sneakers with rubber soles."

"Sure he did." Heath walked back toward the body of Kyle. "Step over here a minute, Mr. Vance. I got something to show you."

Vance moved forward, and I followed him.

"Take a look at that footprint," the Sergeant continued, pointing toward the smear at the edge of the pool of blood where Kyle's head had lain. "It don't show up much till you get close to it. But, once you spot it, you'll notice that it has marks of a rubber-soled shoe, with crosshairs like a checker-board on the sole and round spots on the heel."

Vance bent over and inspected the footprint in the blood.

"Quite right, Sergeant." He had become very grave and serious.

"And now look here," Heath went on, pointing to two other smudges on the floor half-way to the iron stairs.

Vance leaned over the spots, and nodded.

"Yes," he admitted. "Those marks were probably made by the murderer..."

"And once more, sir," Heath went to the stairs and flashed his pocket-light on the third step.

Vance adjusted his monocle and looked closely. Then he rose and stood still for a moment, his chin resting in the palm of his hand.

"How about it, Mr. Vance?" the Sergeant demanded. "Is that evidence enough for you?"

Markham stepped to the foot of the circular stairway, and placed his hand on Vance's shoulder.

"Why this stubbornness, old friend?" he asked in a kindly voice. "It begins to look like a clear case."

Vance lifted his eyes.

"A clear case—yes. But a clear case of what?... It doesn't make sense. Does a man of Bliss's mentality brutally murder a man with whom he is known to have had an appointment, and then leave his scarab-pin and a financial report, which no one else could have produced, on the scene of the crime, to involve himself? And, lest that evidence wasn't enough, he is going to leave bloody footprints, of a distinctive and personal design, leading from the body to his study?... Is it reasonable?"

"It may not be reasonable," Markham conceded; "but these things are nevertheless facts. And there's nothing to be done but confront Doctor Bliss with them."

"I suppose you're right," Vance's eyes again drifted toward the little metal door at the head of the spiral stairs. "Yes...the time has come to put Bliss on the carpet. But I don't like it, Markham. There's something awry...Maybe the doctor himself can enlighten us. Let me fetch him—I've known him for several years." Vance turned and ascended the stairs, taking care not to step on the telltale footprint the Sergeant had discovered.

CHAPTER V MERRY-AMEN

(Friday, July 13; 12:45 p. m.)

Vance knocked on the narrow door and reached into his pocket for his cigarette-case. We on the floor below watched the metal panel in silent expectancy. A feeling of dread, for some unknown reason, assailed me, and my muscles went tense. To this day I cannot explain the cause of my fear; but at that moment a chill came over my heart. All the evidence that had come to light pointed unmistakably toward the great Egyptologist in the little room beyond.

COCHENS, THE ARTIST PHOTOGRAPHER, 304 N. Sycamore—On your way to the post-office today stop and make an appointment for a sitting, and thus do your entire Christmas shopping in less than an hour. The only place in the world where you can buy a present for everybody at one place. Order a dozen or more of those artistic portraits of yourself, made by the artist photographer, and you have bought all your presents at once. Certainly no one will be disappointed in that gift—the gift that only you can give. Make that appointment NOW before the rush.

R SHOP, McFadden and South Main—Here is a perfect touch of the early Spanish of New Mexico; so realistic it is that we forgot our rush entirely and loitered before the fireplace with its iron hooks and kettles. The spirit of reminiscence broods over those strings of red peppers and colorful Indian corn, decorating "worm-eaten" walls. The same happy effect of time's ravages is seen in the secluded booths, tables and benches, as well as candle-tripped whiskey bottles, innocently engaged at "lighting the world." But atmosphere is not all this shop can boast. It might well stand alone on its fine flavored coffee and "square-meal" sandwiches.

HAPPY DAY SHOP FOR GIRLS, Santora Bldg., Second at Broadway—Clothes have ever been such an absolute essential that we were once prone to delete our Christmas list of the "somethings-to-wear." Times have changed. It is now quite the thing. This shop makes it easy for you by handing you the package already for the Christmas tree, with gay ribbons and seals and paper, if you choose any piece of its varied stock of wearables for the girl 7 to 14.

MAIN SERVICE GARAGE, 614 N. Main—Don't neglect the car just because you need the time and money for Christmas shopping. Remember, it's likely to make you late, or never, to that turkey dinner way off in the hills, on the beach, in the city. Minor repairs done in time save not only dimes but dollars. With that famous 100 per cent lubrication you get at the Main Service you're sure to get there. If you're coming to town, they'll store your car by the hour.

WASHINGTON CLEANERS & DYERS, 1109 North Main —The "Washington" is one of the most perfectly equipped plants for modern methods of cleaning to be found in Southern California. As of course the first thing to be considered in cleaning is "clean" solvent, they have installed the latest machinery by which a continuous flow of from 1200 to 1400 gallons of distilled solvent is available at all times. Nothing but the best grade of Cleaners' Naphtha, refined purposely for dry cleaning, is ever used. From the snow white building, through the entire plant every care has been taken to insure cleanliness at the Washington Cleaners & Dyers.

COLLEGE CRUELITIES
The colleges, it seems, have not fallen into step on the national movement to provide employment for heads of families, married men, etc. Witness the way West Point treated Christian K. Cagle as soon as the military authorities discovered he was married. Likewise, see what happened to Joe Savolli, the wandering Wop of South Bend. Both had to find work playing pro football finally. Mr. Cagle with the New York Giants, and Mr. Savolli with the Chicago Bears. Another failure on the part of the colleges.

R. T. JONES, JR. AND MONEY
Even in his renunciation of further tournament golf to make a dozen movies for $200,000, Bobby Jones retains amateur sincerity. Jones could have made twice as much money as he is being guaranteed for the pictures, if he had desired to endorse certain commercial golf products in connection with his film exhibitions. Mr. Jones chose not to endorse.

It is hard to think that we have seen the last of Bobby Jones in national competition. He could appear with the best of grace in the 1931 open.

Not only would his appearance in that event help golf but it would serve as a nice ballyhoo for the Jones films.

If Jones should change his mind and enter, it would not be because he wants to ballyhoo the pictures, however. Anyone who knows Jones will bet on that.

I prefer to think his entry would be the response to the call to competition that he might discover to be irresistible. But it

NOTRE DAME'S AERIAL ATTACK MAY LOSE EYE DUE SATURDAY

By LES CONKLIN
(I. N. S. Sports Writer)
NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—Football fans who have watched the rent money that Notre Dame will storm the citadels of Southern California Saturday confidently expect Professor Knute K. Rockne to confound the Trojans with some hitherto undisclosed masterpiece of gridiron strategy.
Rockne rosters firmly believe that the eminent lecturer, author, teacher, radio broadcaster, rule-maker and coach will qualify as a magician by pulling a brand new rabbit out of the pigskin hat. They will tell you that the master mind prescribed orthodox, defensive football against Northwestern and Army so as to save a flock of new trick plays for this last hurdle in the march for another national championship.

Passes Probable
What is more likely is that the seer of South Bend will return to the methods that brought him fame, and concentrate on forward passes against the Trojans. The aerial attack, always a powerful weapon in Rockne's repertoire, has been used but infrequently this season. It wasn't needed, but Saturday the Ramblers will need everything they have.

The Nomads had to pass to beat Southern Methodist, 20 to 14, in the season's opener. A long heave from Schwartz to Conley sailed that one away after the aerial attack of the Mustangs had held the Ramblers to a standstill. Against Navy, the Irish completed a 40-yard pass which placed them in a scoring position, and also worked a couple of laterals. Notre Dame scored twice on passes against Carnegie. Schwartz heaving one to Kosky for 12 yards and another to Conley for 41 yards.

In the six battles following the Carnegie game, Rockne's men were not forced to take to the air. Passes did not figure in their 35 to 19 victory over Pittsburgh, and all of their four touchdowns against Indiana resulted from long runs. Against Penn, the Irish backs were galloping up and down the greensward with such abandon that anything went. Nor were passes needed against Drake.

Schwartz Man to Watch
Notre Dame completed four heaves out of 12 attempts against Northwestern for a total gain of 60 yards. Their second and last touchdown resulted from a 15-yard toss from Schwartz to Carideo on the one-yard line, but as it turned out this score was not needed.

In the Army game, forward passes were out of the question because of weather conditions. Not even a Carideo or a Schwartz can heave a wet sponge with accuracy. If Notre Dame unleashes a real aerial attack Saturday, Schwartz is the back the Trojans will have to watch. This versatile star has figured in practically every forward pass that has led to a Notre Dame score this season.

TROY PLANS EARLY ATTACK

Fullerton Aims At Saint Weakness

INDIANS BUILD SPEED AND AIR ATTACK REPORT

Fullerton high school will try to trim Santa Ana's "Sinning Saints" with speed, speed and then more speed in the battle between these old rivals at Poly field Friday, according to underground dispatches whispered along the football rialto here today.

Ernie Johnson, coach of the Indians, is admittedly working on a series of surprises for Coach "Tex" Oliver's charges and his boys are said to be taking to the extra duty with renewed vigor, ambition and will-to-win.

Johnson has drafted several of the leading members of Fullerton's strong Class B eleven for the "Big Game" and will use at least one of them, a nimble-footed little back, in his starting lineup, it is understood.

It is no state secret that Santa Ana's regular squad, sturdy and strong though it is, is sadly lacking in speed this season. Aside from Captain Al Reboin, Jimmy Danerli and "Porky" Bell, there isn't a first stringer who can be classed as a fast man. This shortness of speed made little difference until the Saints encountered San Diego and Long Beach, teams of more than average alacrity.

Then they were simply up against it. "Red" Franklin, the Long Beach quarterback, simply outran the Saints when he went to the two touchdowns and Russ Sweet outspurred the whole flock when he ran a kickoff back for his score.

Fullerton has two backs of considerable speed, Elmer Pryor, who has shaken away for at least one long run in every game this season, and Dick Joyce, quarterback, who is dangerous at least.

Coach Johnson evidently intends to make his bid for victory by striking at the Saint weaknesses—lack of speed and poor defense against forward passes—for he is gearing up his backfield and perfecting his aerial attack. Fullerton has no line plunger of real ability and the Saints are much stronger from tackle to tackle anyway. So a wide open game may be expected from the visitors.

Both teams were to wind up their workouts this afternoon. Tomorrow they will do nothing more than limber up.

Friday's game is expected to draw heavily at Poly field. It will be the last game of the year here. Tickets are on sale at Victor Walker's sporting goods store. Officials announce that all tickets sold before Thanksgiving day will be honored.

MACK BEATS RITTERHOUSE
SAN BERNARDINO, Dec. 3.—(UP)—Eddie Mack, Denver, won a decision over Herman Ritterhouse in a fast 10-round battle here last night. Ritterhouse put up a surprisingly good fight.

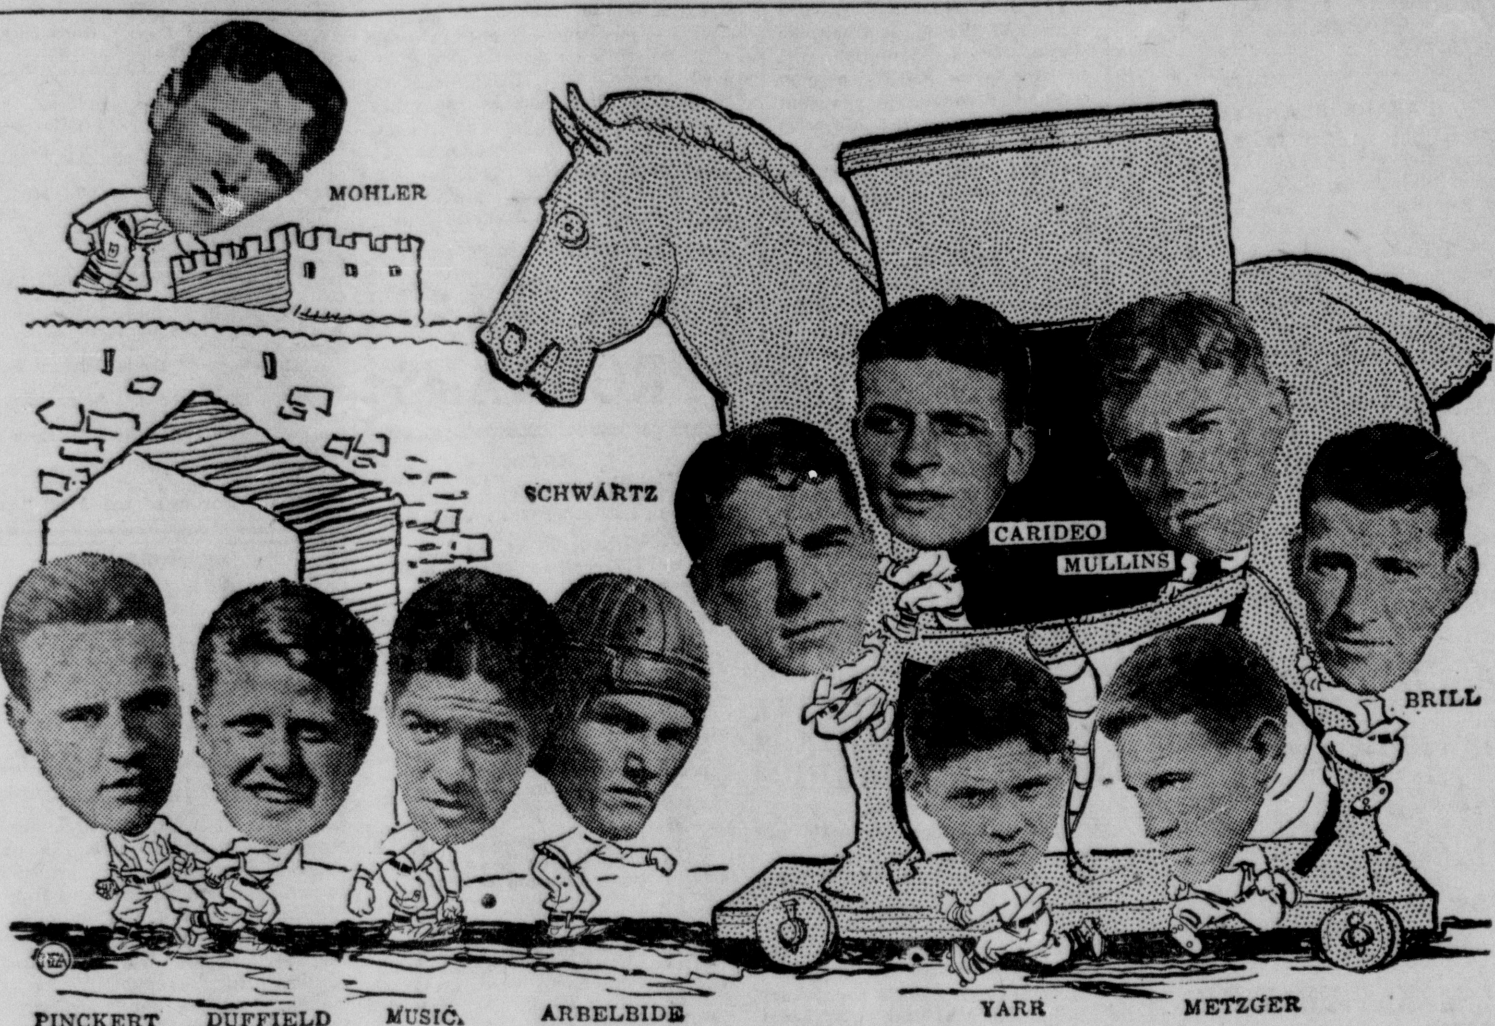

There was not a single man in a chance to make some folks think he was much better than he really is, but he didn't do that much. Instead he proved a cropper on his 1929 promise.

Ralph Hewitt, a potential great at Columbia, was eliminated by injuries. Jim Bausch, a widely-shouted youth from Kansas blew up against Penn and Mr. James didn't suit as well at Princeton as some said he would.

Carideo, Notre Dame's quarterback, appears to have stretched his arms closer to the undying glory of the Ecksersalls of old than any of the year's best performers. Facing the finest teams in the country Carideo displayed not only natural ability that had something of athletic genius in it but he also gave far the best performance as a field general.

BLOCKING MAY DECIDE STRUGGLE OF IRISH, TROJANS

Marvelous offense vs. marvelous offense. Great defense vs. great defense. That's what it will be at the Coliseum Saturday when Notre Dame plays Southern California in the season's football classic. With the eleven apparently so well matched, blocking probably will "win the war." Now both teams boast splendid blockers. So who is going to win? You guess!

BIG TEN LISTS 12 SECTIONAL GAMES IN 1931

BY DIXON STEWART
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
CHICAGO, Dec. 3.—Inter-sectional competition, once a rarity in the Big Ten conference, will retain a prominent place during the 1931 football season, with Western conference schedules, announced today, listing 12 games with opponents from the East, South and Far West.

The schedules, which are to be ratified at the annual Big Ten winter meeting here Friday and Saturday, are complete except for practice games with non-conference opponents. Inter-sectional bookings include:

October 3—Utah at Northwest; Pittsburgh at Iowa.

October 10—Minnesota at Stanford; Iowa at Texas Aggies; Vanderbilt at Ohio State.

October 17—Yale at Chicago.

October 24—Wisconsin at Pennsylvania; Purdue at Carnegie Tech.

October 31—Michigan at Princeton; George Washington at Iowa.

November 7—Navy at Ohio State; Arkansas at Chicago.

The schedule also is marked by the return of Iowa to good standing.

The rotating schedule, under which Big Ten schools are required to meet all rivals once in four years, has resulted in the addition of six games between schools which did not meet in 1930. They are Iowa vs. Indiana; Iowa vs. Minnesota; Iowa vs. Northwestern; Chicago vs. Indiana; Illinois vs. Wisconsin and Michigan vs. Indiana.

ALL-OPPONENT TEAM PICKED BY TROJANS
LOS ANGELES, Dec. 3.—Five members of the Washington State football team were named on an all-opponents eleven selected today by the University of Southern California Trojans. The Cougars handed Troy its only setback of the season, 7 to 6.

The Trojan selections follow: Ends—McKallip, Oregon State; Maskel, Washington State.

Tackles—Edwards, Washington State; Young, Oregon State.

Guards—Beckett, California; Handy, California.

Center—Hein, Washington State; Quarterback—Moffatt, Stanford.

Halfbacks—Hufford, Washington; Linnhart, Washington State.

Fullback—Schwartz, Washington State.

Joe Ruiz Wins In Bout At Olympic
"Fighting Joe" Ruiz, Santa Ana Mexican welterweight sensation, won honeyed words from Los Angeles critics last night when he won four straight rounds and a decision by a wide margin from Warren Farrell in a preliminary at the Olympia.

Letter With Trojan Game Ducats Lost

United States postal inspectors today were investigating the mysterious disappearance here of a registered letter containing four tickets for Saturday's Notre Dame-Southern California football game.

Addressed to C. M. McCulloch, 2028 South Birch street, the mail either was lost or stolen, an inquiry disclosed.

The tickets were for seats 109-112 in row 77, tunnel 18.

T. E. Stephenson, Santa Ana postmaster, said that Federal authorities would check with the U. S. C. ticket department and that occupants of McCulloch's seats would have to explain how they came in possession of the tickets.

It is a serious offense to be in possession of property lost in government mails, Stephenson said.

GROVE, LYONS, FERRELL LEAD A. L. PITCHERS

CHICAGO, Dec. 3.—"Lefty" Grove, Wes Ferrell and Ted Lyons, rivals for recognition as the American league's greatest pitcher, captured a majority of the league's hurling honors.

Official averages, released today, reveal Grove, Philadelphia's fast-ball ace, as the league leader in earned runs allowed with an average of three a game and in percentage with 28 victories and five defeats. Grove also appeared in the most games, 50, one more than his teammate, Barnshaw.

Ferrell, Cleveland rookie, was third in effectiveness with 3.30 earned runs a game, won the second largest number of games, 25, tied with Crowder of Washington for second in complete games pitched, with 25, and was second in number of games pitched with 29.

Lyons, working for the lowly Chicago White Sox, pitched the most innings, 298, the largest number of complete games, 29, won 22 games, more than a third of the victories scored by his club and had an earned run average of 3.77.

Team pitching honors went to the Washington Senators, whose hurling staff allowed an average of only 3.96 earned runs per game. Philadelphia was second with 4.35 runs a game with the other five clubs bunched with .50 runs per game and St. Louis bringing up the rear with an average of 5.07 runs per game.

HEAVYWEIGHTS TOSSED
ST. LOUIS, Mo., Dec. 3.—The scheduled 10-round fight between Maxie Rosenbloom and Paul Swiderski, heavyweights, was stopped last night in the seventh round because they did not fight as hard as the referee thought they could.

COLLEGE CAGE SQUAD HOPES FOR BIG YEAR

Predictions that the Santa Ana junior college Dons would boast a strong basketball team this year are being borne out this week. With 18 candidates already practicing daily in Andrews gymnasium one of the best casaba squads in years seems imminent.

Coach Bill Foote got his first slant at some of the prospective regulars Monday but most of the football players were recuperating from the Fullerton game and did not appear in suit. The gridironers are gradually coming, however, and by the end of the week, Foote expects a squad of at least 25.

Because the football schedule was so long, the Dons are several weeks behind the other schools of the conference in basketball practice. Los Angeles has had 60 men out for two weeks while Long Beach and Pasadena have been drilling equally as long. The Dons will meet Long Beach, Compton, Pasadena, Glendale, Los Angeles and Fullerton in succession on the conference schedule.

Captain Orr Schuchardt, Melvin Beatty from the football team, all basketball lettermen, are back in harness. "Truck" Lindsey, veteran running guard, will be unable to report until after the Christmas holidays while Max Appleby, the sixth man on the team, will be out later this week.

Other gridgers expected this week are Emmett Seacord, center from Tustin; Lorry Walbridge, former Santa Ana forward; Gil and Al Kluthe of Anaheim; "Toby" Greenow, center from Orange; Mike Santa Cruz and Curt McCoy, guards from Orange; Elmore Lord, forward from Orange, and Wayne Bartholomew, center from Compton.

Candidates who have reported are Captain Schuchardt, Beatty, Dunham and Garlock, lettermen; Walbridge, Elwood Lindsey, Joe Warner, John Smith, Santa Ana; Don Johnson, Martin Bowman, Tustin; Hoffman Hurley and Duane Robinson, Excelsior; Harold Dwyer, Orange; Kenny Gilchrist, Huntington Beach; Herman Hoch, Placentia, and Gale Tolan, Northville, Minn.

Chicago Cubs Drop Reading Franchise

READING, Pa., Dec. 3.—The Chicago Cubs have dropped the Reading franchise in the International League.

W. L. Veck, president of the Chicago National league club, in a letter to E. J. Poole, president of the Reading club, pointed out that the Cubs found it inadvisable to operate two Class AA teams—Reading and Los Angeles. Because of its close affiliation with the Los Angeles club the Chicago team decided to relinquish the Reading franchise, Veck said.

BY WILLIAM BRAUCHER (NEA Service Sports Editor)

Some of the boys tell a story about dear old Troy and how certain Greek scouts got inside the invulnerable walls of the city by hiding themselves in a huge wooden horse.

According to the tale, when the horse had been dragged inside the walls by the curious Trojans, a door opened in the side of the great beast and the scouts opened the city's gates to their horde of henchmen. There was blocking and tackling and stiff-arming far into the night.

The Irish of South Bend, led by that scion of County Mayo, Knute Rockne, are going to try to repeat the famous horseplay at Los Angeles, Dec. 6, when they will grapple with the powerful University of Southern California war machine. Instead of a horse, Knute is placing the assault into the busy hands and swift feet of a half dozen horsemen, as critics are wont to refer to this year's Notre Dame backfield, and a line composed of some 14 or 15 muscles.

The Pacific Coast is willing to concede it's a good trick if you can do it.

The Rockne idea is that a continuation of plays perfectly executed is bound to score. Oddly enough, Howard Jones, director of the Trojans, has subscribed to similar ideas.

Rockne's theory is that with 10 men blocked out flat on their backs, the eleven can be disposed of with a well-placed stiff arm, and the man with the ball can proceed then to the point where tallies are registered.

General Rockne has entrusted the duties of master-minding afield to Frank Carideo, an amazingly persistent person Francis is not one to walk off the field disgruntled if the first play of the game doesn't result in a touchdown. In the Northwestern game, Carideo called end runs and of-tackle plays and they were frustrated, so he called some more, and these also were rudely jolted. He called one more, and it clicked, Schwartz going for a touchdown.

Jones teaches his young men similar optimistic theories. Thus, in the game at Chicago last year between these two teams, Trojan Saunders carried back a kickoff for a touchdown, and one of the reasons he was able to do this was because even a Notre Dame man cannot lie on his back and

JONES ELEVEN HOPES TO GET JUMP ON IRISH

(The football season of 1930 will reach its climax in the Notre Dame-Southern California game. The United Press sent George Kirksey of its sport staff to report this game. Kirksey will write from a well grounded knowledge of football generally, and of the competing teams in particular. He handled football this fall in the midwest and spent much time at South Bend, Ind., observing and reporting Notre Dame games. Since going to the Pacific Coast he has been in close contact with both teams.)

By GEORGE KIRKSEY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
LOS ANGELES, Dec. 3.—Regardless of the outcome of the Notre Dame game Saturday, Southern California's present team must be ranked as one of the greatest offensive gridiron machines ever assembled.

The Trojans have rolled up 382 points in nine games to lead the entire country in scoring. From scrimmage only they have gained 4816 yards, or an average of more than 535 yards a game.

Southern California had its greatest day against California, piling up 763 yards from scrimmage and winning 74 to 0. Even in the early October defeat to Washington State, 7 to 6, the Trojans out-gained the victors, 327 yards to 257 yards.

These figures easily show why Howard Jones ranks his current eleven as the greatest offensive unit he has ever coached—even better than his great teams at Iowa in 1920, 1921 and 1922.

Plan Offensive Game
"When they are clicking it just seems like they can't be stopped," Jones said.

And it is also easy to see why Jones openly confesses that Southern California will play a strictly offensive game against Notre Dame.

"We plan to get the ball as quick as possible and keep it as long as we can and score as often as we can," said Jones. "We will not kick until we have to."

Southern California's regular backfield is composed of Marshall Duffield, 175, at quarterback; Marger Apsit, 180, left halfback; Ernie Pinckert, 180, right halfback, and Jim Musick, 195, fullback.

The fifth member of the backfield and perhaps the most dangerous ball carrier on the team, or in the entire nation for that matter, is Orville Mohler, 163, sophomore substitute for Duffield.

Mohler Is Scoring Threat
Mohler hasn't played an entire game, but has scored more points and gained more ground than any other player of the team. He has made 17 touchdowns and rolled up 979 yards in the 135 times he has carried the ball, or an average of 7.2 yards on each play.

Even though he's only the substitute, quarterback, Jones confesses Mohler is as good a ball carrier as he has ever seen.

"I've never seen anyone who could carry the ball better than Mohler," said Jones. "He's a touchdown threat every time he takes the ball, and believe me Notre Dame is going to have trouble stopping him if the team blocks for him."

Under Jones' system the quarterback does about 75 per cent of the ball carrying. With Duffield and Mohler alternating at quarterback, and carrying the ball most of the time, each of the other backs are principally interferences and blockers. Duffield has gained 553 yards in the 114 times he has carried the ball.

Pinckert Great Blocker
Pinckert, the rock 'em and sock 'em lad of the team, is one of the greatest blockers ever developed in the far west. He also carries the

Holiday and Birthday Features Combined In Dinner Event

The fact that the natal day anniversary of Miss Bernice Jeanne Gohres, 1900 South Ross street, this year coincided with the national observance of Thanksgiving, was incentive for friends of Miss Gohres to plan a delightful holiday surprise in her honor.

Through clever contriving, she was taken to the Orient cafe where a group of friends had gathered to surprise her, and where a delicious turkey dinner was served, ending with a brilliantly lighted birthday cake with the dessert course, the flickering candles harmonizing with a prevailing yellow color scheme.

Bridge and dancing completed a happy evening further enlivened by the many daintily wrapped gifts showered on the honoree by the assembled guests who included Messrs. and Mesdames Cecil V. Robinson, Claude Corbin, Bernard Brock, Harry Echols, Vincent C. Croal and Emil Berge, Miss Nettie Jones, Miss Mildred Donovan of Los Angeles, Messrs. Alphonse Verardo, Hubert Gohres and H. Paul Norman.

Spanish Dinner Was Shared By Club Members

A well planned Spanish dinner was served to members of the P. and R. Bridge club Saturday when Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Sala were hosts in their home at 1408 North Broadway.

During the business meeting plans for the coming year were made. Several money-making schemes were suggested, as well as a number of social affairs. A St. Patrick's day party and a pageant to be given Palm Sunday were considered. Mothers of the girls will be guests at an affair to be given in June.

Christmas Party Plans Discussed at Recent Board Meeting

Plans for the Christmas party to be held Thursday, December 11, in the Orange County club-house by branch of the American Association of University Women were discussed recently when the executive board met with Mrs. Horace Scott at 613 South Ross street.

The resignation of Mrs. H. O. Ehlén, one of the directors, was accepted, and Mrs. D. L. Harpster was elected to fill the position.

Mrs. R. C. Patton of Orange, is chairman of the party next week, and has other university women in the city assisting her. Mrs. Horace Scott is arranging transportation for members, and a good crowd is expected.

A special feature of the affair will be a children's book exhibit under the auspices of the educational committee of which Miss Mary Safely is chairman. The following day the display will be moved to the Y. W. C. A. rooms, and books recommended for Christmas selection will be shown.

Child Welfare Theme Was Stressed By Woman's Club

As the two main speakers at the Santa Ana Woman's club meeting held yesterday afternoon in the First Congregational bungalow with "Child Welfare" as the theme of the day, Mrs. Amelia Meagher of the Orange County Health camp, and Mrs. C. R. Vanderberg of Fullerton, county chairman of child welfare, illustrated their talks with a phrase from President Hoover's recent address, "One good community nurse will save a dozen future policemen."

Mrs. Meagher gave a short, informative talk on the work and aims of the health camp, explaining that of every dollar spent for Christmas seals, 75 cents remains in Orange county. The remaining portion is divided between the state and the nation, but in reality is more than returned to each district in advertising seals, and other support taken care of by the state.

She added that the health camps are a preventive measure, where those subject to the dread disease or perhaps carrying the germ are built up to resist the ravages of tuberculosis.

Since 1924, when the first camp was established in Orange county, over 400 children have been cared for here, Mrs. Meagher continued, saying that children should be as healthy as possible, and that this theory can be carried out only through prevention rather than cure.

It was the time when there will be no necessity of innumerable hospitals, again harkening back to the theme that "an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure."

She illustrated her talk with photographs of the children in "before and after" poses, and while at their daily routine.

In introducing Mrs. Meagher as the speaker of the afternoon, Mrs. Vanderberg told of the child welfare work in Fullerton, and stressed the fact that the Woman's club are wonderful mediums for accomplishing many things. Mrs. E. C. Wilson was chairman of the program.

Mrs. Joseph Thurston of Laguna Beach, county federation president, gave a forceful talk on the Southern District convention held recently in Brawley. "Higher Citizenship" was the topic of the convocation, and on enlarging on this Mrs. Thurston said that she is a staunch believer in higher citizenship for the world, not merely for localities.

During the business session of the day, with Mrs. W. H. Kuhn presiding, the bi-monthly executive board meeting to be held Friday beginning at 10 a. m. in the La Habra Women's Improvement club house was announced. It was also announced that the next meeting will be held December 16 in the Y. W. C. A. when a gift exchange will take place. Mrs. W. F. Van Meter was introduced as a new member of the club.

The meeting was concluded with a silver tea, proceeds of which will benefit the health camp. Members who did not bring handkerchiefs for the children of the camp to use as Christmas gifts are urged to do so at the next meeting.

Music Teachers Chose New Officers at Meeting

Miss Adelaide Proctor was elected as president of the Orange County Music Teachers' association at a meeting held Friday evening in Ketter's cafe. Others who will serve with her are Mrs. Margaret Buttre, vice president; Mrs. Jay C. Hannell, corresponding secretary; Mrs. E. E. Eyerly, treasurer; Mrs. Lola Wilkinson, press chairman and Miss Phyllis Keyes, program chairman.

Dinner was served, and the program followed. Louis Danz of Anaheim, entertained with tales of his travels in Europe, stressing customs of the people. He also described the architecture of the various countries as well as the cathedrals and art centers. Concluding his talk, Mr. Danz explained the new symphony, "An American Portrait," which is to be played in Los Angeles next month by the Philharmonic orchestra.

Little Group Held Evening of 500

An evening of 500 was enjoyed by a congenial little group Monday night when Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Phillips were hosts in their home at 1028 South Orange avenue. A social time was enjoyed, and an appetizing refreshment course was served at a late hour.

Bridge followed, and was enjoyed in the upstairs parlors. Mrs. E. F. Muscus and Mrs. Howard Stone scored first and second high. However, they did not share in the awards of the day exclusively, for Mrs. Farrage was presented with a lovely gift on behalf of the club members.

Maddox of 319 East Pomona street, recently complimented her cousin, Miss Violet Nicholson of Whittier, and her niece, little Miss Virginia Irene Kearns of La Canada, in honor of their birthday anniversaries, which occur on the same date.

Medical Auxiliary Held Interesting Session With President

The brilliancy and cheer of the approaching holidays were evidenced in charming fashion yesterday afternoon when Mrs. F. E. Coulter was hostess to members of the Orange County Medical association auxiliary, entertaining in her home at 826 South Ross street. Radiating a glowing warmth were poinsettias artistically arranged in a large bowl, and silver candelabra bearing crimson tapers.

Present officers of the auxiliary were elected to serve next year, and were, Mrs. F. E. Coulter, president; Mrs. H. A. Johnston, Santa Ana, first vice president; Mrs. D. H. Cowles, Fullerton, second vice president, and Mrs. G. Emmett Raitt, Santa Ana, secretary-treasurer.

There was a large attendance at the meeting, and the program opened when Mrs. G. W. Olson of Fullerton, discussed "Spinal Anesthesia." Mrs. H. A. Johnston read a humorous article on "The Peptic Ulcer" by Alma Whitaker, and Mrs. H. D. Newkirk of Anaheim, gave a book review of Menninger's "The Human Mind."

A tempting tea menu was served following the program. An imported luncheon cloth, one of those exquisite shadow filet creations, graced the daintily appointed table. Mrs. H. A. Johnston poured tea and coffee while Mrs. R. A. Cushman, served the individual fruit salads and cakes. Hot tea biscuits and other toothsome accessories completed the menu.

The next meeting will be held with Dr. Margaret D. Baker in her home at 1624 North Baker street. Mrs. Robert Wade and Mrs. K. H. Sutherland will assist as hostesses.

Yuletide Bride-elect Was Incentive For Pretty Affair

Complimenting Miss Mildred Vieira, whose approaching holiday wedding to William Houston Hawley is offering incentive for so many lovely little parties, was a bridge party and shower given Monday evening in the home of Dr. and Mrs. Vincent C. Croal on Riverside drive, with Mrs. Croal and Mrs. Clarence Siemonsma as co-hostesses.

Poinsettias lent their glowing flames to the decorative effect of the home, and suggested the holiday nuptials, as did the Christmas tapers in the silver holders which lighted the tables when a delectable supper was served late in the evening.

In the bridge contest of the evening, attractive prizes chosen by the two hostesses were presented Miss Evelyn Cordes of Anaheim, and Mrs. Harry Wilson. At the same time, Miss Vieira was showered with the lovely gifts selected for her by her assembled friends.

Sharing the pleasures of the affair with Mrs. Croal and Mrs. Siemonsma and their honoree, Miss Vieira, were Mrs. Harry Wilson, Mrs. William Faulkner, Mrs. Clifford Quisel, Mrs. Vernon Williams and Mrs. Harry Siemonsma, Miss Marge Shaffer and Miss Evelyn Cordes of Anaheim; Miss Helen McCann of Los Angeles, and Miss Bernice Gohres.

CHURCH WOMEN SOCIETY THE HOME WEDDINGS FASHIONS HOUSEHOLD

For the Men of the Family

The Christmas gift selections for today will be mostly for the men of the family and some of them will run to a little more money. For your young son, why not a magazine subscription, one of the popular college magazines if he is old enough... a bottle of his favorite hair lotion... a big tube of shaving cream and a generous supply of blades for his trusty little razor... some good looking monogrammed handkerchiefs... a nice pair of suspenders or a belt, but not both, unless he is a pessimist.

And for Dad—poor Dad—he can either come in as the negative majority for "something we can all enjoy" or he can be made glad with as many new neckties as you care to give him.

By the way, do you know it is possible to make good looking neckties yourself? Or, you can have them made at a tie shop for $1.25 for the labor. It takes exactly one-third of a yard of silk to cut a necktie. Rip up an old one and see how they are cut. You will notice all of them are put together with a seam in the middle. After ripping and thoroughly pressing, rip the two pieces apart and make a paper pattern. Heavy silk crepe can be used across the width rather than on the length, and that is why a tie can be cut from exactly one-third of a yard of silk.

Line the ties with a very light weight wool (nun's veiling) cat-stitched to keep them from fraying. Try one tie first and see how it goes before buying material for others.

And here is a gift any man owning a car would enjoy—a small heater to be attached to the exhaust pipe. Keep his temper sweet by keeping his feet warm.

Tomorrow the Christmas gift suggestion will be for giving to the friend who enjoys more than all the gift for her house.

TODAY'S RECIPE

Frozen Maple Sponge

1/2 cup sugar
1 cup maple syrup
2 egg whites
2 level teaspoons gelatine
1 cup heavy cream
Tiny pinch of salt.

This is really a mousse and can be frozen by any method that provides enough cold to do the work. I have made the finest of frozen desserts in other ways by putting the mousse into a tightly covered can and burying it in a snow bank for several hours. But, of course, not all of us have the doubtful pleasure of a snowbank in our back yards.

Let the sugar and maple syrup slowly heat, when the sugar has dissolved increase the heat and boil the syrup until it spins a thread, just as for boiled frosting. Beat the egg whites very dry and stiff, add the pinch of salt to them, and pour the hot syrup slowly into them, beating constantly. Continue beating until the "frosting" is stiff and cold. While you are doing this, soften the gelatine in two tablespoonsful of cold water, then melt over hot water and cool.

After beating the frosting whip the cup of cream till very thick, add the dissolved gelatine to the cream and combine with the frosting, whipping both to mix well. Place in the freezing pan and freeze from 4 to 8 hours.

I find that such desserts, frozen at a lower temperature than that ordinarily used, are much finer grained. In some mechanical refrigerators the ice-cube temperature used for 12 hours produces ideal results.

The mousse should be stirred a

Easiest Way To Break Up a Cold

Millions Say of This Proved Way

Works Fast—Makes You Feel Like a New Person Before You Know It

If you want quick relief from a cold, go back to first principles and use something you know does the business—don't start "trying" a lot of fancy ideas or remedies. Even a "little" cold is too dangerous to take chances on.

Get Hill's Cascara Quinine. A scientific formula made to do ONE THING WELL: to knock a cold in a jiffy, not to cure a hundred different things.

Take two tablets now. Then follow directions on box. Drink lots of water, too—that's all. Soon those mean, aching pains in head and body begin to go; the cold breaks up; poisons leave your system. Almost before you know it, you feel like a new person.

If it doesn't do that, your money back. Get a box now. You'll be surprised at the speed with which it works. Costs only a few cents.

Dorcas Club Held Christmas Party In Murane Home

Members of the Dorcas club of the First Christian church held a most enjoyable Christmas party Monday night when Mrs. John J. Mills and Mrs. Ralph Murane were co-hostesses in the latter's home at 2418 Riverside drive.

The holiday spirit was evidenced throughout the rooms, with colorful bells and tall red tapers aiding in carrying out the chosen theme. Brightening one corner was a prettily decorated Christmas tree, and a gift exchange was held.

A short business meeting was held early in the evening, with Mrs. George Calhoun presiding. Some of the evening was devoted to making scrap books for the children's ward at the Orange county hospital. Mrs. A. W. Gerard gave an interesting account of her recent trip east, relating a number of things about Washington, D. C.

A tempting plum pudding was served with hard sauce centered with a dash of green.

Those sharing the pleasant evening with Mrs. Murane and Mrs. Mills were Mesdames A. W. Gerard, W. S. Buchanan, D. E. Tibbals, R. L. Montgomery, R. Terpstra, J. F. Taylor, C. G. Jenks, Charles Lawrence, C. Carsons, F. A. Snipes, Verle Bisset, George Calhoun, Boose, Norman Hurd, Romy Williams, Lucille MacDoo, Horace Leeling, Martha Raymond, T. E. Williams, Catherine Miller, Dale Elliott and Merl Taylor.

Mrs. Francis Selway Honored at Bridge Shower Saturday

Having established her home in a charming new residence in Tustin, Mrs. Francis Selway was incentive for a miscellaneous shower Saturday afternoon when Miss Anne Tarver and Mrs. Fred Gregory were co-hostesses in the latter's home in Costa Mesa.

Complimenting the lovely frocks worn by the hostesses were corsages of white gardenias, the gifts of Mrs. Selway, whose becoming costume was completed with a cluster of pink sweet peas.

Bridge was the game of the afternoon, and first prize was won by Mrs. Herbert Hill while Miss Beth Westcott was consoled. An appetizing refreshment course was served at the small tables, spread with lovely linens. As a conclusion to the pleasant affair, the honoree was presented with an array of miscellaneous accessories for her new home. Mrs. Gregory's mother, Mrs. Roberts, assisted the two hostesses in serving.

Those sharing the hospitality of Miss Tarver and Mrs. Gregory, other than the honoree, Mrs. Selway, were the Misses Doris Goff, Beth Westcott, Jean Rowland, Betty Rowland, Carol House, Alyce Majors, Lucy Holmes, and Mesdames Herbert Hill, Roberts, Edw. Linsenbard, Lee McClelland, Kenneth Connor, C. D. Holmes, B. O'Toole, of Anaheim, and Gordon Hendrie of Pomona.

This city's Tea

Was Compliment To Daughter

Introducing her daughter, Miss Betty Gould, who is working for her master's degree in the department of education at U. S. C., Mrs. George Gould of 1109 Oak street, entertained a number of college students at a lovely bridge tea late last week.

In the interesting bridge session of the afternoon Miss Eugenia Gilbert scored high and was awarded an attractive gift.

Attending the charming affair were Miss Willena Bell, Miss Eugenia Gilbert, Miss Marian Parsons, Miss Betty Maloney, Miss Grayce Skinner, the honoree, Miss Gould, and the hostess, Mrs. Gould.

For Coughs

From Colds Where One is Willing To Pay To Be Sure

Creomulsion is made to do the utmost for a cough from colds. It combines seven major helps in one—the best helps known to science. It is for quick relief, for safety, when the cough seems deep.

Mild coughs may yield to a lesser help—to some single factor, maybe. But no one can tell which factor will do most for any certain cough. And all coughs should be stopped at once. So careful people, more and more, give Creomulsion for any cough that starts.

The cost is $1.25—a little more than some helps. But it means a seven-way help—the best men know. And it costs you nothing if it fails to bring the quick relief you seek. Your druggist guarantees it.

THE TINYMITES

STORY BY HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES BY KNICK
REG. U. S. PAT. OFF.

The Tinymites thanked the dancing Miss. Said Clowny, "Can you dance like this?" And then he did a jig step which was funny as could be. The girl said, "My, I wish I could, because your dance is really good. I'm sorry that your fancy steps have never been taught to me."

"If, on his tambourine, the man will play a tune as best he can, will you do one more little jig? It's fun to watch you, son. I'm sure that you can fit right in with music." This made Clowny grin. "Why, sure, I'll gladly do it," he exclaimed. And then 'twas done.

The other Tinymites clapped real loud and this made Clowny feel quite proud. The dancing girl said, "Now we'll have a lovely little treat. All of you sit down on the ground. To my food cupboard I am bound. I'll soon return to bring you all some tasty things to eat."

It wasn't long until the bunch were very much enjoying lunch.

They had some milk and sandwiches. An hour or so passed by. The Tinymites then said, "We must go. Thanks for the lunch and dandy show." The girl cried, "Come again." And Scouty answered, "We will try."

Up tiny streets once more they walked and of strange sights they talked and talked. Soon Clowny cried, "Gee, who's that man? He's coming down our way. Look how he's dressed. In real old clothes. Yet he looks happy, goodness knows. Why, he's an old musician. Come, let's ask him if he'll play."

The man came up to them and smiled. Said he, "I'll play for any child. That's how I make my living." Then he started in to play. When finished with a tune or two, The Tinymites knew just what to do. They handed him some little coins, all more than glad to pay.

(The Tinymites meet some Algerian children in the next story.)

1. In playing golf on the Missing Letter Links the object is to change one word to another in a given number of strokes which is par. For example, to go from TEE to PIN in three strokes sounds hard but isn't: TEE-TIE-PIE-PIN. It's probably more difficult on a real course.

2. Change but one letter at a time and be sure the word you have used is one in good usage.

3. The order of the letters cannot be changed.

PRESIDENT HOOVER'S MESSAGE

President Hoover's message to Congress is not as complete or exhaustive as some messages have been, and one is rather impressed that it was made more for compliance with the Constitution than with any expectation that he was furnishing the nation with suggestions of real solutions of knotty problems.

As one would expect, fully two-thirds of the message was taken up with the conditions resulting from the general business depression, and the drought in the Middle West of last summer. It will undoubtedly be granted that the President's declaration of the business situation in the country is fairly, though conservatively, stated. While it may be that there is undue dependence and stress placed upon the number of unemployed as determined by the census report, yet other figures on the value of department store sales, the volume of manufacturing and mineral production, factory employment and bank deposits, as well as wholesale prices of commodities and the cost of living, are figures quite dependable.

Mr. Hoover emphasizes a basic philosophy when he recalls that economic depressions cannot be cured by legislative action or executive pronouncement. He recites the story of the efforts put forth to keep up wages and to develop public building and construction. It seems that there has not been as rapid work done along this line as there has been reason to hope for. In some way or other, the message does not remove from one's thought the impression that this might have been prosecuted with more vigor. We would rather have seen a more scientific statement of the facts from which conclusions might be drawn than to note the argument presented to prove a condition.

He says in offering reasons for not increasing the volume of construction work that, "To increase appropriations for purposes of construction work defeats its own purpose, as such taxes directly diminish employment in private industry." We should like to have had the President explain exactly what he meant by this, for we have no direct tax. The tax is paid from income and mainly from what may be termed "surplus." We do not quite see how that kind of taxes diminishes employment in private industry.

He is right when he suggests that our immediate problem is the increase of employment. This is the big thing, and we know it is being done by private industrial enterprises, municipalities, states and the national government. We do not agree, however, with the additional suggestion in respect to this that plans for increase of employment that extend commitments beyond the period of six months are not warranted. The fact is we would feel that the assurance that it is going to be beyond a six-months period would be the biggest thing to insure a restoration of confidence.

While things are not the finest, the President brings out very clearly that our country has much for which to be thankful, and particularly does he demonstrate this in his discussion of agriculture. He probably did not notice that his emphasis on the idea that the government could not help the business situation by legislative action is rather lost sight of in his insistence that the tariff and the Farm Board, operating under the provision of law, and permitting the use of government funds, have really held up the price of wheat from 20 to 30 per cent higher than at Buenos Aires and Winnipeg. Government does do some things of this character, but in doing them, it far from solves the problem; it rather tends to create a new one.

He expresses a confidence that the immediate hunger and cold of the people of the country will be relieved by private philanthropic bodies and directed by the organization of the Red Cross.

One must conclude that the one per cent profit tax which was taken off must go back on. Certainly if the spirit of the President's utterance is carried out, this must be done for he says: "I do not favor encroachment upon the statutory reduction of the public debt."

Most of the problems with which the President and the administration have been dealing, and in response to which much legislation was enacted, are rather bunched under a general subject and simply recited as the activity of the 71st Congress during its first session.

The consolidation of the railways of the country, and that they shall be strengthened to meet the future needs of the country we believe will find a general response among the people. The effort to get all of the imaginary values out of unbridled competition; out of the law of "supply and demand," in the light of the necessity of the reduction of costs and of the magnitude of private enterprises, some of which are able to own all of the various sources of raw material and the processes of production through to the very end, make the discussion of the implications of the Sherman act on modern industry of great importance.

The President raises serious question concerning the capital gains tax. He says he believes that its effect is to advance speculative inflation and likewise impede business recovery. He does not explain exactly how he considers this to be done. We believe this is one of the strongest and most valuable factors of our income tax law.

President Hoover indicates a deep interest in the Veterans' welfare; for the health of the children and other social work. He calls attention to our fine foreign relationships. It is a communication considering it is to the second session of the Congress, which will probably be considered fair and adequate.

We believe the general impression of his message will be helpful to the country, and his suggestion of purchasing rather than hoarding, if followed out, will help amazingly during the coming weeks. The fact that bank deposits are 105 per cent of the bank deposits in 1928, with depressions in other directions, proves positively the strength of the President's position on this proposition.

The Interborough Rapid Transit System in New York announced it carried 54,000,000 more passengers last year than the year before. What they might well call a crushing business.

AN "ELECTRIC EAR"

An "electric ear" which can distinguish one particular sound from another has been invented. It was demonstrated yesterday for the first time in Pittsburgh. The prime usefulness of the invention, is said to be as an "advance fault finder" for airplane motors and propellers. It appears that two sound waves may be brought together so that they fit in and destroy each other, leaving a third clear. It is anticipated that the "electric ear" will hear loose wrist pins, main bearings, warped or split propellers long before they are loud enough to be heard by the human ear.

Mr. J. P. Foltz, Westinghouse man who developed it, says: "This future ear could be installed in an airplane's dashboard so a bad motor part or propeller blade developing during the flight would instantly show up as a red light to warn the pilot of prospective trouble."

Because motor and propeller trouble in the air is the most vital use to which this new instrument would be put it comes in for first mention. But there are dozens of other uses. There is, for example, the particular noise in the engine or body of the automobile which you can hear but no mechanic seems able to hear. And then, there is the water that is running somewhere in the sprinkler system. Just as you drop off to sleep you begin to distinguish that water is running somewhere. It is so faint that others deny hearing it, but it keeps you awake and the next morning, if you happen to think of it, you can't find the gurgling tap or spray yourself. But you can hear it just before you drop off to sleep again at night.

What College Will Lead?

New York Times

Ever since the publication in October, 1929, of the Carnegie Foundation's Bulletin No. 23 there has been hope, daily growing more audible, that the colleges will take steps to expel professionalism from their sports. That bulletin mustered an impressive array of facts dealing broadly with two subjects: the autocracy of coaches, which has robbed college captains of the right to make decisions on the field; and the subsidizing of players. It revealed that 84 out of 112 institutions of studied were guilty; that a large percentage of football players were helped through college; that coaches and alumni solicited and financed players; that sports has been turned into what modern America calls a "ballyhoo." The Carnegie report suggested that some college lead in the necessary reform. A forthcoming bulletin will describe the steps that have been taken to eliminate payment of star athletes. But no institution has taken the lead in "returning the game to the players."

It is with this phase of the problem that the Rev. Mr. Van Tassel Sutphen, '32, deals in the current issue of The Princeton Alumni Weekly. At that university the regime of "Bill" Roper, most famous of Princeton football coaches, has ended. "Princeton today is standing at the cross-roads," writes Mr. Sutphen.

Is Princeton brave enough and far-sighted enough to assume such leadership? If so, I am of the firm opinion that there will be many to follow. And I even venture to predict that the first recruit to the ranks will answer to the name of John Harvard.

The "open market" for coaches is what Mr. Sutphen would do away with; and sufficient sparks come from his pen to attract the attention of alumni of other universities. If the present system of hiring outsiders is carried to its logical conclusion, he sees, in the Yale-Harvard game of 1930, a Percy Haughton of that era directing the Ells, while the Crimson are directed by a Walter Camp. There is at Princeton an ancient football heritage, "but if the time ever comes that we can no longer put a purely homebred Nassau team on the gridiron, then let the book of our football annals be closed . . . forever." Recent bad records of the team this alumnus believes to be due more to the resentment of players against being made mere puppets than because admission standards are keeping out athletes, or for any other reason. "Who is the captain of 'Notre Dame's magnificent team?' . . . I neither know nor care. The sufficient answer is Knute Rockne. Eheu! it was not so in the consulship of Plancus."

The captain, as exemplified most completely a generation ago at Yale, should be restored to supremacy on the field. The old graduate, who thinks primarily of winning and not playing the game "as becomes a sportsman and a gentleman," should have his "prodigious energy and whole-souled devotion diverted into proper channels." The race of giants of the football field did not end with the graduations of Hinkley, Cumcock and Garry Cochran. They will appear as soon as the coach is put back into his place.

Many will agree with Mr. Sutphen. If Princeton grasps the leadership, she will quickly have followers.

Hard For Old Timer to Believe Pretzel Story

San Francisco Chronicle

Old-timers will find it hard to believe, but the Census Bureau says that the national appetite for pretzels is growing and growing rapidly. And the Census Bureau has counted the pretzels and therefore ought to know. Indeed the rate of increase in the output of pretzels has been more than 2,000,000 pounds annually for the last four years.

To old-timers, of course, this information brings only grief in the train of fond recollections of cheerful free lunch routes, with old pickles and perhaps bologna sandwiches in supporting columns. Gone are the days! And yet here is the pretzel marching to new triumphs. It may seem odd to the old-timers but pretzels really have a use other than raising a thirst. Else there would be no flourishing report from the pretzel foundries in these arid days.

More Truth Than Poetry

THE HYPOCHONDRIAC

I have got an incurable failing;
I am seized with the shudders and shakes
When acquaintances tell me they're ailing
And describe all their pains and their aches.
I grow gloomy and morbid and sour,
Though before I've been cheerful and gay,
For I fear that inside of an hour
I shall feel the same way.

If I go to consult a physician
And he says, when he's counted my pulse:
"I find you're in first-class condition"
I am fearful of fatal results.
His manner seems furtive and stealthy,
As I afterward grimly recall,
And why, if he thought I was healthy,
Did he count it at all?

I suffer from trembling disquiet
Whenever my eyes chance to meet
An article treating of diet,
And listing the things I should eat.
I am sure the right path I've forsaken,
And I fidget and worry and brood
With the thought that I may have partaken
The wrong kind of food.

I wake in the nocturnal stillness
And flounder about in my bed,
While the fear of some unforeseen illness
Keeps buzzing around in my head.
But it's probably not over-eating,
Which brings all these ills in its train;
One weakness I have that needs treating;
And that's in my brain.

How Long Will This Depression Last?

By WILLIAM TRUFANT FOSTER and WADDILL CATCHINGS

How long will this depression last? Well, how long did the others last? The closest parallels were the three depressions of 1884-86, 1907-09, and 1920-22. In these three cases, the periods of sub-normal business were 24 months, 21 months and 25 months.

Even if the forces making for recovery are no greater now than they were in those three cases, the revival of business should set in before Christmas, and business should climb back to normal before the end of 1931.

That means a gain of 25 per cent in twelve months. That means a level of business activity 20 billions of dollars above the present level.

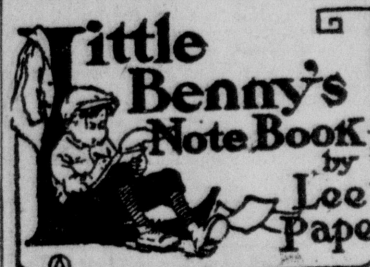

Somebody will do that new business. But nobody will do it, who does not get ready to do it. The time for business to step out is when business is reported to be "all in."

Recovery to normal within twelve months should be expected, even if the favorable factors were no more powerful now than in the previous depressions. But they ARE more powerful. Credit is more plentiful. Interest rates are lower. Surplus stocks of gold are far larger. And individual savings deposits—over 50 billions—are even larger than at the heights of our greatest prosperity.

Then, too, our national banking system has far greater facilities for expediting recovery than in any previous depression. We also have the improved credit machinery for foreign trade, provided by the new Bank for International Settlements. Moreover, inventories of retailers are very low; prices have declined substantially; the largest corporations are financially strong; and labor troubles are fewer than in any previous depression.

Most important of all, this is the first major depression in which employers have insisted that wage-rate must be maintained. All this means that a cold and complete survey of the facts leaves the man who enjoys pessimism with nothing to enjoy.

This afternoon I axidentally cracked one of the hinge legs of the skinny gilt chair in the living room by sitting down on it extier hard for a experiment to find out if it was strong enough to hold up a fat man.

Wich it properly wasent, and ma sed she was going to tell pop on me on account of it being a valuable chair, and I sed, AW, G, ma, Ill tell him, Ill tell him myself.

Well then see that you do with-out any hemming and hawing around the bush, ma sed.

All rite, Ill wait till after supper so as not to spoil his supper, I sed.

Meaning my own too, and after supper I was doing my homework on the living room floor and pop and ma came up, and ma looked at me funny. Meaning the chair, and I sed, Hay pop, wich do you think is the most important leg of a chair?

Never ask a tired man riddles until at least a half hour after meals, pop sed.

And never hem and haw, ma sed. Looking as if she was going to tell him if I didnt, and I quick sed, It aint a riddle, pop, its a fact.

And its a fact Im tired, pop sed. Im going to sit down on the nearest object intended for that purpose, he sed.

Wich he did, being the skinny gilt chair, and the leg busted all a ways off and the chair went over, including pop, ma saying to me, There, now youve done it, if you had come rite out in the first place and told your father you had split the leg, this woulnt of happened.

Yee gods, do you meen to say you knew it too? pop sed. Then for Peet sake why all the dethly silents on your part? he sed.

Being so mad at ma, he didnt have time to be mad at me yet, and I had a suspicion I better quick go up to my own room to finish my lessons.

Wich I did.

Thoughts On Modern Life

By GLENN FRANK

THE DEFLATIONISTS

Yesterday I defined the first of three groups of American business leaders that are competing for our following in the current economic situation—the inflationists, the man who gave us inflated securities prices, inflated credit, and inflated plant capacities.

Today I want to speak of the second group—the deflationists.

As I said yesterday, inflation and deflation are words that usually carry primarily a credit and currency meaning, but, as yesterday, in discussing the inflationists, so today, in discussing the deflationists, I want to give the term a wider meaning.

The deflationists are frankly scared by the tremendous productive forces that we have created in the last decade or two as they see the produce of these productive forces strike a stubborn and sluggish market.

They would not, perhaps, admit it, but they simply don't know what to do with the gigantic industrial system they and their fellows have brought to birth.

Yesterday they were everywhere beating the tom-tom for expansion of securities prices, expansion of credit, expansion of plant capacity, expansion of advertising, expansion of sales force, expansion, expansion. The sky was the limit!

The future of American industry knew no bounds!

Today their whoop has dwindled to a whimper; yesterday they laughed at the crowd; yesterday they fought for advance; today they advise retreat.

Concretely they are saying:

We must pull in our horns; we must scale down our industrial system to more manageable proportions; we must cut our suit according to the cloth available.

Wages, they say, are too high, and must, if production costs are to be cut, be lowered.

We must stop buying two cars when we might get along with one, they say, and we must generally scale down our standard of living.

Government must slow down on its services; it is, they say, spending too much for schools, roads, and kindred recent developments.

The deflationists may sound sensible to the man in the street, but we follow them at our peril. Copyright, 1930, McClure Newspaper Syn.

OUR CHILDREN

By ANGELO PATRI
BUILDING A HOME

Building a home is an unfailing instinct in men and women. A place one can call his own, a place one has built out of his dreams and the labor of his hands, where the children can be born and reared, is a cherished vision in the mind of the very least of us.

Cities do not offer as good homes for children as the country does. The noise, the crowding, the dirt, the tragic lack of play space, the absence of the beauties of nature, rob the city of any charm for childhood. The country is better.

There was a day when living in the country means crucifying labor. Every drop of water had to be carried into the house and out again. Winter cold gripped the very cockles of the heart and the blistering summer sun dried them up. The roads were poor and their dirt choked the gardens. Doctors were far away and slow to come. Supplies were hard to get. Friends were at a distance. Schools were few and poor. The city offered better opportunities for comfortable healthy living.

That time is passing. Young people do not have to face that sort of life now should they choose to live in the open. Houses are built for convenience. Electricity lightens all labor. Plumbing, sanitation that assures health and comfort to the family is a matter of course. The telephone and the radio and the airplane and the family car have made to village and the farm as easy to live in as any city flat. And far more suited to rearing children. Teachers and doctors and nurses are close to the schools and homes of the village today.

Schools are better. The classes are, or ought to be, small. The teacher has a chance to know the personalities of the children and to help the growth of each one. Best of all, under a clear sky, in pure sweet air. That alone is worth any sacrifice of lifts and dumbwaiters and steam and a palatial lobby presided over by buttons and frigidity.

The number of little children killed on the streets of the city is appalling. I shudder to think of that number and the tragedy it records. Any effort to safeguard the children is made imperative and justifiable. Any effort to house young people starting a home ought to be applauded and aided to the utmost.

I am hoping that some day the mothers clubs will make this housing a subject of a crusade and keep at it until the country is dotted all over its broad face with garden communities that provide a setting and a safeguard for the children. Sunnyside in Long Island, Radburn in New Jersey, are fine beginnings. Who is going to start one in the next state, and the next?

It is not possible to rear children in safety in a big city. It is not possible to give the children the breadth of experience, the taste of freedom and beauty their natures crave, in the congestion of the city. It is idle to prod teachers and social workers to improve children's social standards so long as children are forced to live under anti-social conditions. Housing is the first step toward enlightened, happy citizenship. Whose cause shall it be? (Copyright, 1930, The Bell Syn. Inc.)

GILBERT STUART'S BIRTH

On Dec. 3, 1755, Gilbert Stuart, an early and important American portrait painter, was born near Newport, R. I.

He painted his first portraits when only 13, without benefit of instruction. A friend, recognizing his talents, took him to England to study. Here Stuart met Benjamin West, with whom he lived and worked for four years. Stuart then began portrait painting independently and soon became very successful. Such important personages as George III, Mrs. Siddons and Sir Joshua Reynolds sat for him.

At the height of his fame he returned to America, his impelling motive being to paint the portrait of George Washington. He painted several, two of which are now in the Boston and New York art museums.

The list of Stuart's sitters includes the first five presidents of the United States, Louis XVI of France, Edward Everett, John Jay and Jacob Astor. Stuart sought in all his paintings to represent character. He died in Boston in 1828 and was elected to the American Hall of Fame in 1900.
